CONNECTING WITH LEGACY: FAULKNER LAW STUDENTS' VISIT

In a distinctive visit, students from Faulkner University Jones Law School delved into the historical tapestry of the Tuskegee History Center. Specifically, the visit included executive board members of the Ernestine S. Sapp Chapter of the Black Law Students Association (BLSA) and Attorney Ernestine Sapp, the chapter's namesake.

Attorney Sapp, a retired Tuskegee attorney, has long been a dedicated supporter of the Tuskegee History Center. Her legacy resonates not only through her legal contributions but also as a trailblazer during the Civil Rights Movement. In an online statement, the chapter expressed deep gratitude for the invaluable opportunity to connect with Attorney Sapp, noting, "We are grateful for the opportunity to sit at the same table with such an amazing woman who was a trailblazer during the Civil Rights Movement."

This visit not only underscored the commitment of Faulkner University Jones Law School students to understanding the historical context of their legal studies but also highlighted the profound impact of Attorney Ernestine Sapp's legacy on the ongoing pursuit of justice and equality.
