

Gilson Lubin

Comedian | Emcee | Host

Heralded as the 'new face of comedy' by Sun TV back in 2009, Gilson Lubin, a Canadian comedy award winner and Premier Award nominee, has racked up an impressive resume since emerging onto the field. His performances include SPIKE TV's 'Spike Da Mic' competition; the prestigious and world-renowned Just For Laughs festival; and opening for Dave Chapelle at Massey Hall.

Following his appearance on HBO's Russell Simmons Def Comedy Jam this former host and writer of MTV's "Word From The Street" has also ventured into production of live events including Buncha Bad Apples, No Strings Attached, Sugar & Hate special for MTV and as of late 'A Night Of Comedy' – the new hit stand-up showcase in Canada's entertainment capital of Toronto.

Encouraged by friends and family, the St. Lucian export was encouraged to take a serious crack at stand-up in 2001 and has strongly represented his Caribbean roots, as well as his Canadian upbringing in his unique brand of comedy. Other appearances include the Comedy Network and CTV's Comedy Now, CBC's Laugh Out Loud, Halifax Comedy Festival, Winnipeg Comedy Festival and Comedy Centrals Premium Blend.
