

Minister's Bio

Kinga Surma is the Minister of Infrastructure for the Province of Ontario and the Member of Provincial Parliament (MPP) for Etobicoke Centre.

She is devoted to fighting for her residents and the people of Ontario to ensure they have the quality infrastructure and high-speed internet connections that will support to enhance their well-being and quality of life for generations to come.

Since her appointment to the Ministry of Infrastructure in June 2021, Minister Surma has spearheaded the province's high-speed internet initiatives that ensure communities in every corner of the province have access to reliable high-speed internet by the end of 2025.

Following her reappointment to the infrastructure portfolio in June 2022, Minister Surma was given the responsibility of handling the province's real estate portfolio, where she is working collaboratively with other ministries to determine how to best utilize the Province's assets, such as using excess lands to create more housing and deliver more long-term care homes.

She is also overseeing the redevelopment of Ontario Place that will turn the underutilized site into a remarkable world-class, year-round destination that will include affordable, family-friendly entertainment, event space, dining options, more parkland and waterfront access.

Minister Surma continues to collaborate with stakeholders to deliver a better, smarter and more integrated transit network and subway plan. This includes the construction of the province's major priority transit projects, including the Eglinton Crosstown West Extension and the Ontario Line as well as the Transit-Oriented Communities (TOC) program to help reduce gridlock, shorten commute times, and enhance the quality of life of Ontarians.

Minister Surma is committed to building and strengthening communities across the province and ensuring that shovels get into the ground promptly and that projects are built quickly and efficiently, all while guaranteeing the best value for taxpayers. She is a devoted community leader, who has comprehensive knowledge of all orders of government that allows her to effectively address concerns of Ontarians and support the people of Etobicoke Centre.

Minister Surma came to Canada from Poland at the age of 4 years old. As a successful immigrant and Canadian citizen, she understands the challenges that newcomers face when beginning their life in Canada.

She holds a degree in Public Policy, Business and Commerce from the University of Guelph as well as Public Relations Designations from Ryerson University.
