

Cummins Inc. has been a South Shore Clean Cities member since 2006. Cummins was founded in 1919 in Columbus, Indiana, where the global headquarters remain today. The company has appeared on the Fortune 500 list for more than 25 years and is currently ranked 128 on the list.

Since 1919, Cummins has turned challenges into opportunities, always looking for new solutions to power a more prosperous world. Cummins powers the future with products and services that improve people's lives. The global company is focused on bringing the right technology solutions at the right time to its markets, providing the most efficient, high-performing and most reliable technologies available. These include advanced diesel, natural gas, hybrid, electric and fuel cell and other technologies currently under development and evaluation. Today, it's more important than ever that the products Cummins provides its customers not only fuel their success, but also reduce the environmental impact on communities.

Cummins takes a broad approach to sustainability, including the environment, community engagement, health and safety, diversity and inclusion, governance and more. The company's approach is simple: sustainably support Cummins' mission to make people's lives better by powering a more prosperous world. The company believes in transparency and accountability, producing a sustainability report annually since 2003.

Launched in November 2019, Cummins' next generation environmental sustainability strategy, Planet 2050, looks out to 2050, setting quantifiable goals for 2030 along with visionary longer-term aspirations to 2050. The audacious and exciting strategy affects Cummins and its stakeholders positively. The strategy includes:

- Reducing greenhouse gas and air emissions in line with experts' recommendations
- Using natural resources in the most sustainable way possible
- Helping communities address their major environmental challenges
