

Ann Zuccardy - “Storytelling and the Art of Listening”

Ann Zuccardy is a two-time TEDx speaker, keynote presenter, adjunct professor, and former specialty food entrepreneur. After working for over three decades in the business world, Ann retired in 2024 from the U.S. DoD where she was a civilian technical writer for the Army. She now does freelance writing, editing, and speaking.

Ann's publishing and speaking credits include: Country Home Products (2001), Vermont Chamber of Commerce Winter Guide (2008), Press Pause Moments: Essays about Life Transitions by Women Writers (2009), Brain Injury Journey Magazine (2013), Brain Injury Alliance of Arizona (2016), Association for Applied and Therapeutic Humor (2016), University of Vermont Medical Center (2016), Canadian Broadcasting Company (2016), Adelaide Literary Magazine (2019), In Between Spaces: An Anthology of Disabled Writers (2022), Baltimore Fishbowl (2022), Champlain Community Services (2024), Allium Literary Magazine (2025), The Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa (2025), and more.

Ann holds a B.A. in English from Southern Connecticut State University, an M.A. in English from Southern New Hampshire University, and is currently working toward her M.F.A. in Memoir and Publishing Arts at the University of Baltimore. She splits her time between northern Vermont and Baltimore.

