How to Write a Successful NIH Career Development Award

Tuesday, Oct. 24
1:30 - 3:30 p.m.
SU-80 Rm. 223

Mark Roltsch, Ph.D., a former National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute Program Officer and Scientific Review Officer, will share his insight from years of career development awards review experience and program management.

This workshop will help fellows and young investigators understand the different K award mechanisms, propose strategies to optimize funding opportunities, and enhance attendees' knowledge of what is needed to write a successful career development grant and how to avoid some common pitfalls.
