IRB Virtual Assistance Through Canvas

If your schedule makes it difficult to attend IRB training workshops or meet with the Human Research Protections Program (HRPP) staff to discuss your IRB project, you'll be glad to know we have launched an "IRB Education Course" on Canvas.

This learning community serves as a virtual assistance and training platform which allows you to get the answers you need any time, from any device. In it you will find how-to-videos that will guide you through several processes and answer commonly asked questions such as how and what to submit, registering for CITI training modules and more.

Using virtual meeting tools such as WebEx, the HRPP staff is able to share screens with you and help navigate the submission process with greater ease.

The course is now live. To access it by self-enrolling, click here.
