What is Delirium and Why Do I Need to Know?

presented by Deborah D’Avolio, Ph.D., BC-ACNP, ANP, Associate Professor, Christine E. Lynn College of Nursing

2 – 3 p.m. Thursday, July 18

400 NW 2nd Ave.
Boca Raton, FL 33432

Understanding delirium, a serious, treatable illness, which affects older adults, can be lifesaving. Delirium is a disturbance in mental abilities that results in confused thinking and reduced awareness. It is often unrecognized, particularly among those with dementia, who are at high risk of delirium.

Join Deborah D’Avolio, Ph.D., to talk about delirium:
• the causes
• risk factors
• treatment
• prevention
