

Future Homeowner 2019

Olin Hanner

Mr. Hanner is a Georgia native born on Peachtree Street at Crawford Long hospital. He was a butcher by trade for 39 years and has lived in various parts of Atlanta. 5 years ago he decided to call Cobb County home.

As a single father he paid for his only daughter to attend Georgia State for undergrad and Georgetown for grad school. His dream is to have a place for her to stay when she visits that is a home in which he owns.

Mr. Hanner decided it was time to own his own home after he was sitting at his kitchen table one day and realized he could apply for a Habitat house. He said "I know it was God raised up in my spirit. I had heard about Habitat and seen Jimmy Carter on television over the years, but I never thought to prompt looking into it for myself."

He got on his computer and googled and found the NW Metro Atlanta Habitat for Humanity website. He started the process and decided that God could work out the details for him. Well God did.

Mr. Hanner works in Cobb County and is an usher for the Braves at Suntrust Park. He knew when he retired he wanted to work there. He also works as an usher for the Falcons when the Braves are not in season.

Mr. Hanner switches his hats and clothing based on the sports season and is ready and willing to talk sports with you.

Mr. Hanner's house was supposed to be finished by December of 2018 and funding to finish his home fell through. The house is half way complete and awaiting funding to start building again after the holidays. He took the news that he was not moving in by Christmas with grace and patience, he just knows eventually he will get his home.

We would like to get Mr. Hanner into his brand new home by March 2018 and would love to have you help us make it happen!
