

United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights

Dignity & Justice for All Humanity

Article 16

(1) Men and women of full age, without any limitation due to race, nationality or religion, have the right to marry and to found a family.

They are entitled to equal rights as to marriage, during marriage and at its dissolution.

(2) Marriage shall be entered into only with the free and full consent of the intending spouses.

(3) The family is the natural and fundamental group unit of society and is entitled to protection by society and the State.

United States Constitution

Amendment XIV

All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Contemporary Marriage Vows

We entered into each others lives and experienced love and happiness.

Today I am confirming my promise for all of my life to love and respect you, to be faithful and honest with you, to give you encouragement, strength and trust, to stand together in our times of joy and of sorrow.

I pray that our home will be one of love and understanding and patience ... not to remain the same, but to grow better and stronger with the passing of time, and through the love we have for one another.

Our lives have become joined with the times we have shared, and will be more complete by the memories ahead, ready to be made.

I am promising from this day forward that I will be your husband/wife, to walk with you throughout all your tomorrows.

I love you.

“Contemporary Marriage Vows”; <http://weddingsbylance.com/sample>