Michael is a Regional Director at Global X ETFs, leading the firm's business development efforts across the Pacific Northwest. He partners with financial advisors, private banks, and RIAs to deliver investment insights and access to Global X's lineup of ETFs, model portfolios, and custom product solutions.

Since joining Global X in 2019, Michael has helped expand the firm's footprint in the region by working closely with advisors on portfolio construction and thematic investing, with a focus on areas such as artificial intelligence, energy, infrastructure, and income strategies.

Prior to Global X, Michael worked in the Institutional Services group at Natixis Investment Managers, specializing in multi-asset and quantitative strategies for institutions and family offices. He also held roles in Private Wealth Management at UBS and Merrill Lynch, where he supported financial planning and portfolio strategies for high-net-worth investors.

Michael graduated from the Haslam School of Business at the University of Tennessee and has served on councils for CFA Society San Francisco and the San Francisco Bond Club. He lives in Alameda with his wife and two-year-old son, and enjoys golf, hiking, and snowboarding.
