

Sarah Rich

Vice President, Lead Client Portfolio Manager for Americas Third-Party Wealth, Quantitative Investment Strategies (QIS)

Sarah is the Lead Client Portfolio Manager for Americas Third-Party Wealth in Goldman Sachs Asset Management's Quantitative Investment Strategies (QIS) business. In this role, she drives client strategy for the business's broad suite of quantitative solutions. QIS offers a spectrum of strategies focused on generating alpha across asset classes, delivering efficient factor exposures, and providing investors access to alternative investments with attractive liquidity profiles. Previously, Sarah was a Client Portfolio Manager in the Fundamental Equity business, focused on business strategy and client communications for the group's Thematic investment strategies, with specific expertise in technology, health care, and cleantech. Sarah joined the financial services industry in 2021 with over seven years of experience in international development, venture philanthropy, and corporate strategy consulting. From 2016 to 2018 she was Strategy Consultant to the Global Chief Technology Officer of the Johnson & Johnson Consumer Companies. Sarah graduated from the University of California, Berkeley, Haas School of Business in 2021 with an MBA, and she holds an AB cum laude in History & Literature from Harvard University.