

Welcome LEOS!

St. Mark's recently hired a number of "LEOS"—Leaders for Educational and Operational Support. LEOS will support students and faculty during the academic day in classes and activities conducted synchronously or asynchronously. This will include helping to manage virtual classroom transitions, supporting students who cannot be physically present, providing supervision for students during meals and traveling between classes/activities, and any other support duties as assigned. Please join us in welcoming the LEOS below! Some are familiar faces and some are brand-new to our community.

Ally Cromwell

Ally Cromwell ATC, LAT, is our assistant athletic trainer. She earned a bachelor of science in athletic training from Southern Connecticut State University. Ally is responsible for the safety and well being of all our student athletes, in season and out of season. She also provides injury guidance and counseling to our athletes. Prior to coming to St. Mark's in 2018, Ally was the assistant athletic trainer at Needham High School, also worked as the first head athletic trainer at South Shore Vocational Regional Technical High School helping to build the athletic training role.

Luke Chaisson

Luke rejoined the St. Mark's community in 2019 as the assistant varsity baseball coach after graduating from the School in 2015. He then joined the residential team as a dorm parent in Coe in January 2020 while serving as the interim assistant athletic director. Before returning to Southborough, Luke completed his B.A in communication from Virginia Wesleyan University. He also spent time working in the athletic department at Wellesley College after graduation.

Matthew Droney

Matthew Droney comes to us from Babson College, where he serves as the assistant men's basketball coach. Prior to Babson, Droney was the assistant men's basketball coach at MIT where he coached three all-conference and all-region selections, served as the program's recruiting coordinator, and was responsible for scouting opponents. Prior to MIT, he was an assistant coach and assistant facilities director at Vassar College where he was involved in both recruiting and player development. Along with his collegiate coach experiences, Droney co-founded and serves as an assistant coach for The Basketball Tournament (TBT) squad We Are D3. Droney is a graduate of the Taft School and Babson College.

Stefan Giegucz

Stefan Giegucz is the athletic equipment manager and assistant coach for boys' varsity basketball at St. Mark's. Prior to joining the St. Mark's family, Stefan worked on the coaching staff at Algonquin Regional High School as an assistant coach for two seasons. The Loyola University Chicago graduate spent three seasons on Porter Moser's staff before joining the Algonquin staff. While working for Porter Moser, Stefan served as head student manager for two years before being promoted to video coordinator for the Ramblers. During his season as video coordinator at Loyola, Stefan helped Loyola reach their first postseason birth in 30 years, ending in a CBI Championship.

Patrick Hagerty

Strength Coach Patrick Hagerty has been with St. Mark's since August 2018. Patrick is responsible for the implementation of the strength and conditioning program for all athletic teams at St. Mark's. Patrick loves the enthusiasm the St. Mark's student athlete brings to team workouts and their eagerness to learn. Prior to coming on board, Patrick worked at Athletic Republic Sports Performance in Norwood and interned at Yale University with the university's strength and conditioning staff.

Gary Holdgraf

Gary joins the St. Mark's LEOS team as a newcomer to the community. He is a 2002 graduate of Texas A&M University with a B.A. in English Literature. In his free time he enjoys exploring New England, whether from his kayak or his favorite pair of hiking boots.

Meghan Lewis

Meghan is a 2020 graduate of Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, where she earned her bachelor in philosophy and formal organizations. During her time at Trinity she was also a member of the women's basketball team and an academic mentor for underperforming Hartford youth. Meghan has also held a resident teaching fellow position at her alma mater, The Hotchkiss School.

Tierney McCue

Tierney is a recent graduate from Dickinson College, with a B.A. in International Studies/ Spanish. She is originally from New Mexico and loves visiting museums and historical sites. She worked at the United States Army War College as an English tutor for the international fellows. She worked as an intern for the War College's Center for Strategic Leadership in their International Strategic Crisis Negotiation Exercise development program for graduate schools. During her time at Dickinson, she worked as a residential advisor, community board member, and summer teacher in Maine. She will be attending graduate school at Carnegie Mellon University next fall. She is excited to work with students this year at St. Mark's and provide support to faculty.

Andrew McGowan

Andrew McGowan is a graduate of Bowdoin College, where he received bachelor of arts degrees in English and education as well as a minor in cinema studies. He has experience as a camp counselor, mentor, and teaching assistant, and in the summer of 2017, he taught seventh grade language arts for the Breakthrough Collaborative in Denver, Colorado.

Justin Perron

Justin Perron comes to St. Mark's after spending his last five years in the Clark University Athletic Department. There he served as both assistant men's basketball coach and assistant sports information director. He also was the liaison between athletics and Clark's counseling center, helping break the stigma surrounding mental health and sports. Perron attended Framingham State University for his undergraduate degree where he studied psychology.

and had a stint on the men's basketball team. Perron then obtained a master's in education from Providence College in 2019, where his studies focused on counseling and higher education. In his free time, he enjoys taking walks with his dog Duncan and playing golf.

Denis Tobin

Denis Tobin is a graduate of Clark University, where he studied political science and played basketball. He is an assistant basketball coach at Suffolk University, where he is working toward his master's in higher education, which he plans to complete in December. He resides in Medway.
