HOLY LAND CHRISTIAN SOLIDARITY COLLECTIVE

How does the Holy Land Christian Solidarity Collective work?

- Volunteers in Bethlehem collect crafts from 1000 people from Christian families; sometimes the whole family works together in the home to create the crafts. Other crafts are made by artisans in shops. Volunteers then ship the goods where others in different states create opportunities in churches to sell the products and tell the story of Christians in the Holy Land.
- The Collective pays taxes, customs fees, and storage and shipping costs, and sends the remaining proceeds to the artisans and families who make the crafts.
- The Collective does not take donations or offerings because it is a living for these artisans, not a charity. Purchases are not tax deductible.
