

Summer Sermon Series, 2022

“Let’s Be Honest With Each Other: Things We Say We Aren’t Sure We Mean”

The last two years have taken a toll. Even though we are back to gathering together, some of us still may be nervous about being in large groups. We are anxious about the economy. Some of us are just plain weary. As a church we are in a transition, and for some this may be a source of anxiety. When we face challenges or others close to us face challenges, we often want to say something to make it better. Sometimes we rely on phrases we have heard before. In our sermon series this summer we want to go deeper to explore why we say what we say and maybe as we journey together we will find a word of grace and comfort for the days that lie ahead. God is good, all the time. We hope you will join us for Sunday morning worship at 10:00 a.m. in the sanctuary.
