

TACKLING THE OPIOID CRISIS

Every day, more than 200 people in the United States die from drug related overdoses. That total includes a surging number of opiate related deaths. The fast growth and abuse of misused narcotic prescription pain medication, heroin, fentanyl, and synthetic opiates has devastated an entire generation of youth. The opiate epidemic combined with alcohol and other illicit drugs is fueling one of the greatest public health crises that our nation has ever faced.

ABOUT US

All of our substance abuse programs are led by a treatment team that is cross-trained to treat all aspects of addiction.

The most important member of the treatment team is the individual seeking treatment. They are a partner and encouraged to take an active role in their own recovery. Staff works with individuals to develop a customized treatment plan designed to work for them.

LIFE-CHANGING TREATMENT IS AFFORDABLE

For many people suffering from a drug or alcohol addiction, sobriety can seem like an impossible goal. But with the right treatment and support, recovery is never out of reach.

We work with insurance providers and also offer competitive self-pay rates .

The extended Residential Treatment Program is a 28-day, self-pay program that can provide individuals with the clinical expertise and caring support needed for effective recovery.

PROGRAMS

Recovery is a life-long process. The programs at the Dewey Center reach beyond the addiction and address the emotional, physical, social, and biological issues involved. The Dewey Center has dedicated staff, a great facility, and programs that treat all aspects of addiction . Using motivational interviewing, cognitive behavioral therapy, and community reinforcement approach we work to treat the whole person.

Programs on campus include:

- Inpatient services—including detox
- Partial Hospitalization
- Intensive Outpatient Program
- Residential Treatment
- Outpatient treatment
- On-campus community recovery groups—12 step and others
- On-campus Sober Living

PROVIDING EVIDENCE-BASED
TREATMENT FOR MORE THAN 40
YEARS THAT IS CLOSE TO HOME

The Dewey Center moved to a newly-built state-of-the-art facility in 2018 that is located on the campus of Aurora Psychiatric Hospital. This Wauwatosa location is in a quiet wooded location along the beautiful Honey Creek Parkway.

For people battling addiction, the Dewey Center provides treatment for the whole person since every person is uniquely different. Individuals work to explore the path to recovery that works best for them with expert staff, and evidence-based therapies and program.
