

Raising Awareness of Diabetes Prevention in Communities--RESEARCH STUDY

Are you a community member interested in raising awareness of diabetes prevention in your community?

You could take part in a training program to help you learn about and raise awareness of diabetes prevention in communities.

The training will be in person or online.

If you are interested and you are:

- A community member focused on health related outreach and awareness
- Adult (18-65 years old)
- Female
- Of African American/Black/ African ancestry
- Getting less than 150 minutes of weekly physical activity or overweight

Please call Dr. Laurie Quinn at 312-996-7906

for more information.

THIS NIH FUNDED STUDY IS A COLLABORATION BETWEEN THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS-CHICAGO, ILLINOIS CHW ASSOCIATION, AND THE UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE.

Call for more information and to check eligibility.

312-996-7906

Study location is UIC College of Nursing

Over 12-Weeks:

-Up to 8 Weekly Program Sessions

-Pre & Post Program evaluations

You will receive the following for taking part in the study:

- Up to $150 for completing full pre- and post-program evaluation
- Physical activity tracker
- Program materials
- Certificate of completion

Investigators:

Laurie Ruggiero, Ph.D.

Lauretta Quinn, Ph.D.

Amparo Castillo, Ph.D.