

After many great years and stories covered, New Jersey News Director Jeremy Settle is taking his career in a new direction and will be leaving News 12 at the end of June. In the nine years Jeremy has worked with us as both News Director and Assistant News Director he has helped lead New Jersey's pre-eminent news organization through two of the biggest stories in its history- Hurricane Sandy and Covid. Thank you Jeremy for your leadership on those pivotal stories that still permeate our newscasts today. Thanks too for your guidance and passion on executing superior severe weather coverage.

A search for the next news director for News 12 New Jersey begins immediately. We are committed to finding a leader who can build on the brand of journalistic and weather dominance that you as a team have carved out over the years. Whether it's our Storm Watch coverage, investigative news or the day to day brand of storytelling, your ability as a team to come together when it matters is what makes News 12 New Jersey so special. The next News Director will help guide the strong News 12 New Jersey brand on all platforms.
