Alexa Rodriguez has decided that the time has come for a change and will depart our Duopoly in March. She recently told me about her plans and explains why she made this difficult decision later in this email.

Alexa is an outstanding journalist and an exceptional leader. She is also a wonderful person. While we are disappointed Alexa will not be guiding our news efforts in the future and wanted her to stay, we respect her decision. She guided WNJU through an amazing and exhaustive news cycle since she took over the news director chair in 2023. Before that she held assistant news director and executive producer roles with us. She also had a long and successful career with Univision.

Over the years, Alexa has made great hires and shown impeccable news judgement. She has been key to the ratings success at WNJU.

She cares deeply about the communities we serve and has always been a strong voice for them in our coverage and community involvement. Her hard work to bring WNJU and WNBC together at our new home at 30 Rock is a key reason for our successful co-location.

Please join me in thanking Alexa for all she has done for WNJU, for WNBC and our duopoly.

More to come on how we will celebrate Alexa and tell her what she means to us.

Amy

Dear Team:

After eight wonderful years at T47, it is time for me to move forward to the next chapter of my life and career. I am planning to take some time off to recharge and then want to pursue several personal projects I have been long considering, which may include teaching.

This has been a difficult decision because we have accomplished so much together. For almost 30 years, I've been fortunate to be part of an industry passionate about making a difference.

I never imagined I would experience anything bigger than 9/11 and then COVID happened.
The endless hours of planning, preparation, and execution would not have been possible without the support and collaboration of so many professionals who shared the same goal: to keep our community informed and safe.

Please know that it's been the joy of my life to do what I love, and I'm forever grateful. I will miss the laughter, the stress, and the adrenaline of the newsroom, but I look forward to my next adventure, which will continue to include my passion for helping others.

I've been fortunate to work for and with so many great leaders and even more so to have grown and mentor an incredible team. You have made me a better human being and professional. I could not have done this without you.

Our work matters and makes a difference in people's lives. Stay passionate and focused. You make it happen!

With gratitude y con Amor,
Alexa
