

Hey Rick, thanks for reaching out.

As the broadcast industry continues to adapt, I have been informed that my role at WISH-TV/Circle City Broadcasting has been cut. I served as VP/News-News Director.

I am immensely proud of the work we've done at WISH over nearly ten years.

It has been my great honor to hire scores of journalists and team members in that time and was part of winning six Emmys on behalf of the station. I'm one of the lucky ones, I've always done what I loved, and loved what I've done. WISH-TV has been an amazing experience.

While there, I worked with three owners, several GM's, and experienced a couple of nights dodging tear gas while covering the downtown Indianapolis protests, among other things.

I'd do it all again in a heartbeat.

News of the death of local journalism, especially local television journalism, has been greatly exaggerated. (Thanks Mark Twain) It is changing, and the industry must change with it. I'm just idealistic enough to still believe that it is not only necessary, but is a worthy calling.

As for what's next, we'll keep you posted.
