I’m pleased to announce Jeff Mulligan as the station manager for KSHB/KMCI in Kansas City. Jeff returns to KSHB/KMCI from WSIL-TV in Carterville, Illinois, where he most recently served as news director overseeing all news department operations. As station manager at KSHB/KMCI, he will lead day-to-day operations and serve as news director.

During his tenure at WSIL-TV, he fostered a culture of innovation and helped transform news coverage from a strictly linear focus to multiplatform coverage.

It is a return to Kansas City and Scripps as Jeff previously served as a dayside executive producer at KSHB/KMCI six years ago. In addition to his current news director role, Jeff previously held the roles of assistant news director at WISH-TV in Indianapolis, news director at WMBD in Peoria, Illinois, and executive producer at KGO-TV in San Francisco and WDAF-TV in Kansas City.

Jeff is an experienced, award-winning journalist with a deep understanding of station operations and the Kansas City market. His leadership experience and previous tenure with Scripps stations make him a great choice to be the leader at KSHB/KMCI. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Radio/TV sales and management from Southern Illinois University Carbondale. In his free time, Jeff is a self-described science fiction junkie and a huge fan of Marvel comics and movies. He also likes to take short road trips to various sites in our country.

Jeff’s first day at the station will be Monday, Sept. 9.

Please join me in welcoming Jeff back to KSHB/KMCI and Scripps.
