Kristin assists business owners going through periods of change by listening and helping them feel understood. She provides valuation services and works in an advisory capacity with small business owners looking to sell or acquire a business.

Valuation and small business consulting services are often needed at emotional times. Clients can expect Kristin to take the time to understand and analyze their situation, while reducing stress, by simplifying the process. Kristin aims to make the process understandable and successful while allowing business owners to concentrate on operations.

Outside of work, Kristin enjoys spending time with her family, reading, binge watching Netflix and Hulu, playing trivia and being outdoors... so long as the mosquito population is under control.
