

Richie McGinniss

A graduate of Georgetown University, Richie McGinniss started his career at MSNBC/NBC News DC as a production assistant and as a video editor for Mark Levin before he took over the video operation at Tucker Carlson's Daily Caller in 2017.

In 2020, McGinniss led a team of reporters through lawless zones across the country: DC, Seattle's "CHAZ", Portland, Kenosha, Minneapolis, Wauwatosa, the Southern Border, Philly, and back to DC for the 2020 election and its aftermath. While covering riots in Kenosha, Wisconsin, McGinniss witnessed Kyle Rittenhouse kill Joseph Rosenbaum and testified as a key witness (and named victim) in the trial. Also at the chaotic police line covering the Capitol riot on January 6, McGinniss has a first-hand understanding of how news events can be cannibalized and re-fashioned by corporate media.
