

MENU

Melanie

CFPB addresses 'black hole' in mortgage disclosure rule

New rule clarifies timeframe for addressing closing cost increases with consumers

BY PATRICK KEARNS

MAY 1

EMAIL SHARING:

SHARE ON SOCIAL:

---

Let's make 2018 your breakout year!

Join real estate's best to unlock growth at Connect SF, July 17-20, 2018

---

LEARN MORE

---

The Consumer Finance Protection Bureau (CFPB) last week finalized changes to address so-called "black holes" in the "Know Before You Owe" mortgage disclosure rule. The "black holes" created ambiguity about when lenders had to tell potential borrowers about closing costs.

Changes to the 2015 rule — also called TILA-RESPA Integrated Disclosure, or TRID — are intended to clarify the language in regards to the timeframe in which lenders can pass

"A mortgage is one of the largest financial decisions a consumer will ever make, and CFPB's rules help ensure consumers have the easy-to-understand information they need before making a decision that will significantly impact their financial lives," said former CFPB Director Richard Cordray, back when the amendments were proposed in July 2017. "Our updates will clarify parts of our mortgage disclosure rule to make for a smoother implementation process for lenders and consumers."

The "Know Before You Owe" rule was initially created to provide consumers, "with good faith estimates of the loan terms and closing costs required to be disclosed on a Loan Estimate," according to CFPD. There was confusion, however, in the mortgage industry, as to exactly when creditors may pass increased costs to consumers and disclose them on a closing disclosure form.

Nowhere in the original rule did it specify the timeframe for addressing these increased costs with consumers, which the mortgage industry said made it difficult for creditors to pass the increased costs to consumers. That confusion led to creditors spreading the costs across all consumers by pricing their loan products with added margins, or in some cases, denying consumers the credit even after providing the closing disclosure, according to CFPB.

The new amendment now sets a clear four-day timeframe, eliminating that potential gap, or "black hole" as it's known in the industry.

SPONSORED CONTENT

Delivering a luxury experience in a tech-driven world

"The Bureau adopted the provision that requires that consumers receive the revised loan estimate not later than four business days prior to consummation to ensure that consumers do not receive a revised loan estimate on the same date as the closing disclosure in cases where the revised loan estimate is not provided to the consumer in person," the amendment states.

The changes were initially proposed back on July 2017 and open to a public comment period. At the time, the National Association of Realtors (NAR) was one of the organizations that voiced support for changes. The final rule is set to take effect 30 days after it's published in the federal register.

Email Patrick Kearns

Article image credited to staras on Shutterstock.com

SHARE ON SOCIAL

TRENDING

OPINION

Tables turning on real estate

BY BRAD INMAN | MAY 1

OPINION

10 little extras homesellers love but don't expect

BY BRIAN HOPPER | MAY 2

OPINION

Read NAR's response to HAR's stance on raising dues

BY TOM RILEY | APR 30

Realtor.com hit with class-action lawsuit over allegedly non-viable leads

BY ANDREA V. BRAMBILA | APR 27

Redfin, Compass crack top 10 in new Swanepoel Mega 1000 list

BY PATRICK KEARNS | MAY 1

The best month and date to sell a home is ...

BY MARIAN MCPHERSON | APR 30

SPONSORED CONTENT

---

---

Hide Comments

COMMENTS

0 Comments

Sort by Newest

Add a comment...

---

Facebook Comments Plugin

RELATED ARTICLES

Wells Fargo hit with $1B fine in mortgage account scandal

Federal regulators on Friday hit banking giant Wells Fargo with a $1 billion fine for violations involving home mortgages and auto insurance.

BY PATRICK KEARNS | APR 20

Real estate agents are experts at guiding consumers through the negotiations and paperwork involved in the homebuying process. Yet, once buyers have signed on the dotted line, walked into their new homes and closed the door behind them, they too often are left with a false sense of security that all the surprises are over.

BY DIANE MORAIS | APR 26

Home prices rise again for 70th month in a row, no signs of stopping

Home prices across the country are continuing a rise akin to the 15 years leading up to the 2008 financial crisis, according to the latest S&P CoreLogic Case-Shiller National Home Price NSA Index.

BY PATRICK KEARNS | APR 24

Why Quicken Loans isn't really in the mortgage business

The founder and chairman of Quicken Loans, now the largest mortgage company in the U.S., revealed that he does not consider himself to be "in the mortgage business."

BY VERONIKA BONDARENKO | APR 23

Inman

About

Contact

Support

Advertise

Sponsor Connect

Careers

Code of Conduct

Privacy

Terms of Use

Products

Select

©2018 Inman All Rights Reserved.

Community

Inman Facebook group

Awards

Inman 101
Inman Innovators

Vendor Exchange

Contributor

submissions

Image submissions