

As we pass the midpoint of our fiscal year 2025-2026, I want to extend my sincere appreciation to the Voices for Children, CASA of Boulder County community. This Mid-Year Report offers an opportunity to reflect on where we've been, recognize the dedication that makes our work possible, and look ahead with purpose and optimism.

The past several months have been a powerful reminder of what we can accomplish together. Our volunteers, staff, board, and supporters continue to show up with compassion, resilience, and a shared commitment to ensuring children who have experienced abuse or neglect are never without a voice. Every step forward has been rooted in this collective dedication to children and families in Boulder County.

I am deeply proud of the progress we've made so far this year. We have continued to strengthen our CASA program, welcome new advocates into the CASA community, and support those who commit their time and hearts to children navigating complex systems. Behind every success is a network of people working together to provide stability, consistency, and hope.

At the organizational level, we remain focused on sustainability and long-term impact. Our team continues to be thoughtful stewards of the resources entrusted to us, ensuring we can maintain high-quality advocacy today while preparing for the needs of tomorrow. This balance allows us to stay grounded in our mission while remaining adaptable in a changing environment.

As you review the Mid-Year Report that follows, I invite you to see it not only as a snapshot of progress, but as a reflection of the children served, the advocates who stood by them, and the community that made it all possible.

Thank you for standing with Voices for Children and for helping ensure every child who has experienced abuse and neglect has someone in their corner. We look forward to finishing the year stronger, together.

Warm Regards,
