INTRODUCTION

See the next page to learn about mass murder events that killed tens of millions of people in the 20th century with the help of "gun control"!

If anyone would be well qualified to address both the proximal and deeper causes of the Holocaust and similar mass-murder campaigns, it would be the observant Jews, the Orthodox Jews.

America's last remaining right*:

Gun control is a genocidal policy that was used by the worst dictators of the 20th century. Untold millions of Americans can see another Holocaust brewing here in the USA and can see clearly that the Second Amendment is our last remaining right.

But given that we are failing, we must ask whether pro-gun activism is enough on its own.

AFTER 9/11, IT WAS PERFECTLY CLEAR that the search and seizure provisions of the Fourth Amendment, with other provisions of the Bill of Rights (so pesky to totalitarians as they are), had essentially been destroyed. For almost two decades, Americans had time to either become acclimated or consider why this tragedy happened and what can be done to reverse it.

Then most of the remaining important provisions of the Bill of Rights were ended during the lockdowns—all except for the Second Amendment, of course. Canada saw a ban on their anti-Holocaust rifles during the days of the lockdowns after they had one mass shooting there.

Those who are paying attention are acutely aware that gun rights are very nearly the last rights remaining in America and are only 'hanging on by a thread.' Many are correctly motivated to make activism for gun rights their top priority, standing against a genocidal policy: so-called "gun control."

But in isolation, efforts at promoting gun rights are failing. Have we been pushing on the wrong thing?

MAYBE WE REALLY HAVE BEEN PUSHING ON THE WRONG THING. Despite high levels of support from the general public for gun rights and despite the tenacious, amazing work of a large number of pro-Second Amendment activists including Jews for the Preservation of Firearms Ownership and Gun Owners of America, we can see plainly that gun rights are very sharply on the decline in much of our nation. Yes, it's true that there is no logical reason why anyone would believe differently from JPFO and GOA if they would simply read the amazing and concise Genocide Chart (2002) by JPFO. It would seem that one-page chart would instantly end the debate for our entire nation. (See the next page for a duplication of the JPFO Genocide Chart.) But this very complete information, in and of itself, has not solved the problem. There are still well-meaning people in our country promoting gun control.

We have all heard the definition of insanity attributed to Einstein: doing the same thing over and over again while expecting a different result. This is exactly what gun rights groups today are doing. The simple fact is that everything happens by Divine Providence, not by accident. Dictatorship is not excluded from that rule. The Constitution Party here in Ory-gun (emphasis on the gun) correctly states: "Those who won't be ruled by G-d will be ruled by tyrants." This is true without exception, no matter how "libertarian" a person may be. The germ theory of disease transmission has been greatly overblown at best, but the sin theory of dictatorship is the right one. As we'll see in the upcoming pages, G-d's perfect system of justice works on the principle of middah kineged middah: "measure for measure."

Never has our nation been closer to starting another Holocaust. There is only one way out.

This is derived from the JPFO website page - as a more printer-friendly option. The complete web page is accompanied by a detailed promotion of the Death by "Gun Control" book, written by Aaron Zelman and Richard W.Stevens - and available from the JPFO store . It works on a level that nobody can dispute: documented world history.

Here's the Formula: Hatred + Government + Disarmed Civilians = Genocide

What makes the argument so powerful? Two factors. First, it makes common sense: unarmed defenseless people have no hope against armed aggressors. Second, it states the historical truth: evil governments did wipe out 170,000,000 innocent non-military lives in the 20th Century alone. See the film "Innocents Betrayed" for further chilling evidence, also available from the JPFO store.

When the gun prohibitionists quote a statistic about how many people are killed by firearms misuse, the discussion sometimes bogs down into whose crime statistics to believe and how to count crimes vs. the defensive firearm uses.

In the 20th Century:

- Governments murdered four times as many civilians as were killed in all the international and domestic wars combined.
- Governments murdered millions more people than were killed by common criminals.

How could governments kill so many people? The governments had the power - and the people, the victims, were unable to resist. The victims were unarmed.

Topic 1: A GEOGRAPHIC CONNECTION

Urban centers and abortion tourism states*:

It is useful to show there is a geographic connection and then suggest causation.

Parts of America have an abortion-and-euthanasia culture. The same parts of America have a gun control culture.

Some who pretend they are sure there is no Creator would insist this geographic connection is...merely the will of the voters in particular areas who vote to the left and hold opinions which lean to the left.

The truth is much simpler:

If we save the babies, we'll save the guns.

IT IS WELL-KNOWN THAT U.S. STATES HAVE THEIR OWN GUN LAWS, BUT SOME CITIES HAVE THEIR OWN REGULATIONS SEPARATE FROM THE STATE GUN LAWS. These cities have shockingly high rates of abortion. In New York City, about 60% of Black babies are aborted each year. Note: if someone believes that the lives of Black people (and people of other races) are important, maybe they should be pro-life rather than donating to an organization with two of its three founding members admitted to be "trained organizers...trained Marxists."

And if we take an honest look at the states known for being centers of abortion tourism, we find exactly the same states which are most ready to ban all guns from the hands of the public (translation: most ready to centralize them in the hands of a government they themselves admit they don't trust).

Parts of America have an abortion-and-euthanasia culture. The same parts of America have a gun control culture. While the secular world would point to this as a mere natural phenomenon, the result of certain voters voting for certain things, it would be foolish and shameful to ignore the reality that G-d is in control at all times and in all places and to ignore His perfect system of justice based on middah kineged middah, measure for measure. Some who pretend they are sure there is no Creator would insist this geographic connection is merely the way of the world, merely a natural phenomenon, merely the will of the voters in particular areas who vote to the left and hold opinions which lean to the left. The truth is much simpler: If we save the babies, we'll save the guns.

THOSE WHO ARE READING THIS REPORT HAVE READ THE PREVIOUS PAGE AND THEREFORE CANNOT HONESTLY CLAIM THAT BANNING GUNS WILL SAVE BABIES:

The recent series of organized mass shootings does not compare numerically to 20th century dictatorships.

But why, then, would saving the babies save the guns? It's because we are not left on this planet without an Instruction Manual for Life and because its Author is our Judge.

Gun ownership achieves the Torah objective that the weak should be protected from the hands of the strong. Our society has become disturbingly tolerant of murder of the weakest members of mankind, the unborn, and has not protected them from the hands of doctors hired by patients.

Why would such a nation be deserving in G-d's eyes of the great and now globally rare blessing of gun ownership? For those who know saving gun ownership can save millions or billions of lives, maybe the answer to the puzzle is here in this report. Redirecting some of our efforts to the deeper cause may just unlock the full victory of today's pro-gun activism efforts, with G-d's help.

Mass murder leads to mass murder*:

G-d's perfect system of justice is measure for measure.

73 million abortions are performed every year. For reference, that is more than 12 times the number of Jews killed in the Holocaust. This mass murder will make us deserving in G-d's eyes of another Holocaust if it is not stopped.

The Nazis used cattle cars to transport human beings to the work camps and death camps (which resembled CAFOs). Maybe some Europeans at the time of WWII were buying feedlot foods rather than spending somewhat more money for something more ideal. "You reap what you sow" is actually a reality and not just a nice figure of speech.

The good news is that knowing the problem is half the solution!

MURDER WAS RAMPANT IN GERMAN MEDICINE BEFORE THE HOLOCAUST WAS IN FULL FORCE. Euthanasia (murder by doctors) was common and the German doctors had a reputation for killing the weak and disabled. Just seven states in the USA explicitly allow euthanasia (though both the Liverpool Pathway to comfortably, quickly lose the dying and the morphine + midazolam combination approach for coronavirus patients are almost explicitly euthanasia).

Today, there are an astonishing 73 million abortions performed each year; this statistic comes from a "pro-choice" organization. [1] For reference, that is more than 12 times the number of Jews killed in the Holocaust and it's been happening every year. This mass murder will make us deserving in G-d's eyes of another Holocaust if it is not stopped.

Some believe in a concept known as "karma." They are mistaken. But they are not terribly far from the truth. G-d really does judge favorably those who judge others favorably. And as shown in my campaign statements booklet, by voting with his dollars the American man can choose to support farmers raising pasture-based animal foods which contribute to perfect balance of beneficial atmospheric gases such as carbon dioxide and methane and are vastly more nutritious rather than paying for CAFO animals to be raised in feedlots that resemble concentration camps.

The Nazis used cattle cars to transport human beings to the work camps and death camps (which resembled CAFOs). Maybe some Europeans at the time of WWII were buying feedlot foods rather than spending somewhat more money for something more ideal. So human beings were "treated like cattle." But when the world is perfected through repentance, animals will also not be treated badly so being "treated like cattle" will no longer be considered such a degrading comment.

Here in this discussion we can see that "you reap what you sow" is actually a reality and not just a nice figure of speech. And that is exactly why we are in such great trouble with our Creator for being tolerant of abortion. The good news is that knowing the problem is half the solution! We should be thrilled and overjoyed to realize that abortion is the locked door holding back the success of the life-saving gun activism endeavors in which so many are now slaving away and racing against the clock.

Topic 2: "MY BODY, MY CHOICE"

A phony dialectic*:

RABBI YITZCHOK DOVID SMITH HAS EXPLAINED WITH GREAT CLARITY THAT WE NEED TO BE ON THE LOOKOUT FOR PHONY DIALECTICS. One such example he has highlighted is the false vote between "the government owns your body" and "my body, my choice." The reality, he explains, is that our bodies are entrusted to us by our Creator and there are instructions given to mankind as to how we are to take care of the human body. So this means we're not left alone to figure it out by ourselves. For those who don't know, Rabbi Smith is at the forefront of the health freedom movement and at the tip of the spear in stopping euthanasia in the state of New Jersey. I think he has plenty of experience relevant to our discussion here.

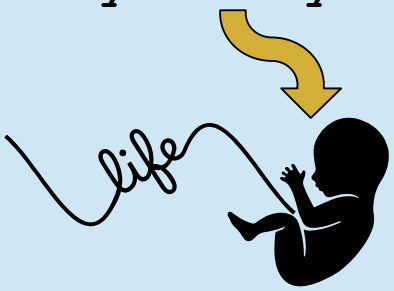

During the lockdowns and mandates related to the "coronavirus," we saw that those who had used the slogan "my body, my choice" on the topic of abortion were promoting the goal that unvaccinated people would not be able to have employment. "My body, my choice" was certainly the opposite of their slogan when it came to vaccines. So they chose, in varying scenarios, one side of the phony dialectic or the other. The libertarian side on the abortion topic would say, "the government doesn't own your body" and it would say the same on the vaccine topic. As much as this libertarianism could sound like a rosy ideal to some, the freedom to own guns and the "freedom" to kill babies are mutually exclusive. They cannot coexist with any stability. G-d made the Law and He sets dictatorships over nations that do not follow it. Murder is a very serious crime in G-d's eyes. Why would He give the great and rare freedom of defense and security to a nation of baby-murderers?

An example was set by those who said "my body, my choice" in the debate about intentionally killing children and later claimed that the government owned the bodies of everyone when it comes to theoretically accidentally killing adults by spreading a so-called "contagious" microbe. This just goes to prove Rabbi Smith's point: both sides of that dialectic are phony. (Please see The Contagion Myth by the Weston A. Price Foundation, September 2020 for the real physical cause of the new breathing illness and please see "COVID Crisis – Middah Kineged Middah Of How We Persecuted Our Unvaccinated Brethren" {amazing/enough to make one cry} by Rabbi Eliyahu Brog at [2], [3] for deeper causes.)

So real freedom is knowing that there are laws made by G-d which we must follow and that these are not there to frustrate us any more than guardrails on the side of a road (which are not there to frustrate us at all). Our nation can't maintain both its remaining gun rights and its abortion habit.

We are being offered a phony dialectic of choosing between "the government owns your body" and "my body, my choice." Our bodies are entrusted to us by our Creator.

MOTHERS:
Please remember this is actually not your body.

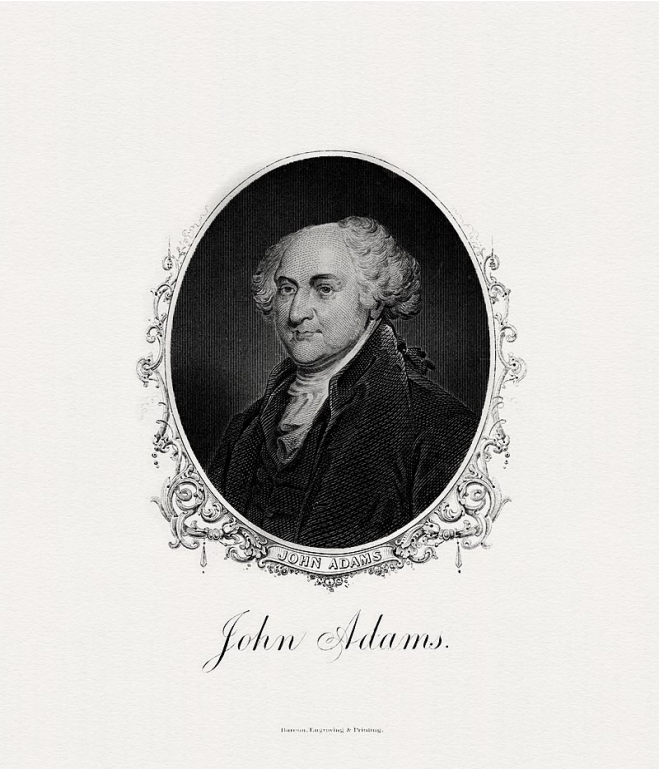

As much as libertarianism could sound like a rosy ideal to some, the freedom to own guns and the "freedom" to kill babies are mutually exclusive.

Our nation can't maintain both its remaining gun rights and its abortion habit.

> But should the People of America, once become capable of that deep <[...]> simulation towards one another and towards foreign nations, which assumes the Language of Justice and moderation while it is practicing Iniquity and Extravagance; and displays in the most captivating manner the charming Pictures of Candour frankness & sincerity while it is rioting in rapine and Insolence: this Country will be the most miserable Habitation in the World. Because We have no Government armed with Power capable of contending with human Passions unbridled by <[...]> morality and Religion. Avarice, Ambition <and> Revenge or Galantry, would break the strongest Cords of our Constitution as a Whale goes through a Net. Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious People. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other*...*

—from John Adams to Massachusetts Militia, October 11th, 1798 [4]

AS IT TURNS OUT, there are very large numbers of people out there who are doing great political activism work. As should be very obvious by now, their great efforts are largely an unqualified failure. The missing ingredient is repentance. An unrighteous nation will be oppressed, I believe, even if it continues to do very nice secular activism efforts. But a righteous nation—a nation that is forgiven by G-d for its past, a nation that has turned back to the one true G-d of Israel—I believe, will have...

RIGHTEOUS GOVERNMENT!

Topic 3: "DON'T SAY IT COULD NEVER HAPPEN HERE"

Tolerance of abortion may well be the most important transgression in our society causing what appears to be the last remaining right in the Bill of Rights (the Second Amendment) to be lost at an accelerating pace. This is happening with great geographic precision.

Arguably, "Don't say it could never happen here" is closely related to "Never again," another slogan meant to call attention to the Holocaust to prevent another one from happening.

After the disastrous push to eliminate the Bill of Rights that followed 9/11 and the lockdowns which seemed to deal the final blow—save for the Second Amendment—to the Bill of Rights, an organized group wanted Americans on the left to rally for their "right" to kill babies. This was actually their stated top priority.

IN THE PREVIOUS SECTION, WE COVERED A SLOGAN WHICH WAS IRONICALLY USED BY THOSE WHO PROMOTED ABORTION. We saw that they believed it was their body and their choice as to whether they should kill babies but that it was the government's choice as to whether someone should be allowed to have a job if unvaccinated. Here we can cover yet another slogan which is strikingly and obviously used in the service of totalitarianism.

Nothing happens by accident. Everything happens by Divine Providence. Thank G-d, I remembered this fact when I heard about a popular slogan related to abortion. This led to a startling realization. Maybe plenty of others have recognized it before, but it was startling to me: tolerance of abortion may well be the most important transgression in our society causing what appears to be the last remaining right in the Bill of Rights (the Second Amendment) to be lost at an accelerating pace. This is happening with great geographic precision. That's the theory, anyway. It's certainly a new idea to me and I wonder if anyone else will think it has any validity at all.

The slogan that kicked off my realization was "Don't say it could never happen here." This slogan was used recently to promote abortion in our country at a time when so-called "abortion rights" have been championed as the one single most important platform of many who ran for office in 2022. So first let me point out just some of the obvious problems with this thinking. "Don't say it could never happen here," most certainly, has been frequently on the lips of the religious right (of which I am, as a Noahide and a conspiracy theorist, very gladly a part) in a different context: the context of the prospect, G-d forbid, of another Holocaust. (It almost goes without saying that topic is especially relevant to me because my book manuscript now has a second title of How to Prevent the Next Holocaust and Why It's Already Happening Right Here in America).

So after the disastrous push to eliminate the Bill of Rights that followed 9/11 and most immediately after the disastrous push during the lockdowns related to the new breathing illness which seemed to deal the final blow—save for the Second Amendment—to the Bill of Rights, there appears to be an organized group which wanted Americans on the left to rally for their "right" to kill babies. This was actually their stated top priority. You read that correctly.

Arguably, "Don't say it could never happen here" is closely related to "Never again," another slogan meant to call attention to the Holocaust to prevent another one from happening. And recently, Holocaust survivor and medical freedom advocate Vera Sharav released a documentary called Never Again is Now Global to warn viewers that the coronavirus mandates and lockdowns are, in fact, the not-so-early stages of another Holocaust.

If a portion of our society is making it their top priority to reuse the anti-Holocaust slogan "Don't say it could never happen here" to promote the "right" to kill babies while screaming at/interrupting/censoring those who launch any real, legitimate criticism of government overreach with the supposedly disparaging term "conspiracy theorist", then we do know there is something wrong. We know they at least have a blind spot.

I did not learn about this slogan by accident. It was by Divine Providence. It highlights a huge blind spot of the left, which has been remaining, for the most part, studiously and reliably unsuspicious of any potential for repeat of government evils severe enough to resemble the worst mass-murdering regimes of the 1900s. Those who have been watching out to prevent another iteration of the Soviet gulags and the Nazi extermination camps have been slapped with Turnspeak (blaming the victim for the wrongdoing of the perpetrator) in the slanderous and now most extremely ironic use of the term "Holocaust denier."

The real truth: those who are against the very idea of anything that sounds like a "conspiracy theory" are, with their actions though not with their mouths, denying the Holocaust by assuming (consciously or not): "that could never happen here." At the same time, we can see that the same individuals are making pro-abortion activism their top campaign priority by reusing the slogan "Don't say it could never happen here" not for preventing another Holocaust, no, but for actually bringing another Holocaust one giant step closer to reality by staining our nation in G-d's eyes with the blood of children. I can almost hear the detractors who would scoff at the idea G-d judges nations. I don't think they would scoff if I said it was "bad karma" for a nation to murder millions of adults and that it could lead to another Holocaust in that nation. But if I say it's actually G-d and not karma and it's actually millions of babies rather than adults, somehow that sounds very unreasonable to some people? Why should it seem like an alien concept that G-d, the Creator, would ever pass judgment of any kind of His creations? Because the university system has worked very hard to squash this out of students.

If a portion of our society is making it their top priority to reuse the anti-Holocaust slogan "Don't say it could never happen here" to promote the "right" to kill babies while screaming at, interrupting, or censoring those who launch any real, legitimate criticism of government overreach with the supposedly disparaging term "conspiracy theorist", then we do know there is something wrong. We know they at least have a blind spot.

Those who have been watching out to prevent another iteration of the Soviet gulags and the Nazi extermination camps have been slapped with Turnspeak (blaming the victim for the wrongdoing of the perpetrator) in the slanderous and now most extremely ironic use of the term "Holocaust denier."

Those rallying for abortion "rights" are able to see our nation has problems. But they are being given a surrogate cause in place of a good cause they should be involved with. It even has the same slogan: "Don't say it could never happen here."

"The voice of your brother's bloods":

Both the Jewish Bible and even the language of the oppressors point the way out.

The presently dominant political force in the USA does not wish to "lift every voice." Instead, it seeks to: minimize the voice of at least one race (White) in the name of antiracism; to cancel, de-platform, and de-bank [8] religious, conservative, pro-health-freedom individuals; and to label anti-abortion activists as terrorists. [9] Certainly the voices of the unborn are among the 'canceled' voices in cancel culture. The voices of Holocaust survivors such as Rabbi Hillel Handler and Vera Sharav are also 'canceled.' I would also argue the victims of Hitler, Mao, and Stalin would not be raising their voices, if they could, in favor of gun control and that they are also being 'canceled.' ... And unborn children don't have children of their own.

SOMETIMES, BY DIVINE PROVIDENCE, THE LANGUAGE OF THE OPPRESSORS GIVES US READY, DETAILED CLUES AS TO WHY WE ARE BEING OPPRESSED AND HOW REPENTANCE WILL END THE PROBLEM. We're investigating here why gun rights activism efforts have failed and how abortion is the national crime tightly locking up our success and preventing G-d from granting us victory.

Here in Ory-gun (emphasis on the gun), one of the most extreme of the unconstitutional gun laws ever invented in the USA (Measure 114) was said to have "passed" by narrow margin. An organization called Lift Every Voice spent over $125,000 on working to pass this unconstitutional "law." [5] But the Jewish Bible says in Genesis 4:10 (after the murder of Cain by his brother Abel):

> And He said, "What have you done? Hark! Your brother's blood cries out to Me from the earth... [6]

(More literally: "The voice of your brother's bloods...")
Rashi's commentary here on the plain meaning gives:

> Your brother's blood: Heb. דְּמֵי, the plural form. His blood and the blood of his descendants. Another explanation: He inflicted many wounds upon him because he did not know from where his soul would depart.
> — [from Sanh. 37] [6]

The plural form for blood here in Hebrew is fairly translated as "bloods" so the verse could reasonably be written in English with "your brother's bloods," the blood of his would-be descendants included.

In Ottawa, Canada in Fall 2014, a pro-life group called We Need a Law planted 100,000 flags for 400 meters in front of Parliament Hill, half of them pink and half of them blue to signify boys and girls. [7] I would say they were working to "lift every voice" of each unborn child killed that year in Canada. But maybe one of the most heinous things about the crime of abortion in G-d's eyes is that it prevents the killed from having children, making the crime worse in a way than if a full-grown mother or father had been killed. G-d sees the past, present, and future. Unborn children don't have children of their own.

"The blood of man within man":

The blessing to Noach (Noah) includes a simple reminder for mankind that abortion is murder.

We can lift the voices of the canceled unborn and find greater freedom through G-d's favor; or else the voices of mass shooting victims will be lifted in error against the Second Amendment in an emotionally charged, seemingly convincing manner, endangering all living Americans.

A would-be mass shooter isn't expected to see a No Guns Allowed sign posted and think, "Well, I was going to commit a mass murder today but it's against the law to have guns here..."

Is there a reason why children specifically have been the vehicle for pulling on the heart-strings of many? Does it point to the specific type of repentance we should focus on in our efforts to untie the knots with which our oppressors have bound us?

MY LETTER TO DUKE ENERGY ON THE CAUSE OF BOTH THE GRID ATTACKS AND THE MASS SHOOTINGS SHOWED "STRATEGIC DOMESTIC DECEPTION" IS THE NAME OF THE GAME. Clearly, few if any operations could be more emotionally charged than the murder of schoolchildren. And it has obviously been necessary for the anti-gun perpetrators, the organizers of the series of mass shootings, to work only on an emotional level because G_d-given common sense (as we saw already in JPFO's 2002 Genocide Chart) would otherwise win every single time and correctly guide the views of the public.

But is there another reason why it is specifically children who have frequently or even usually targeted? I don't mean a physical reason. We know the physical reasons such as the fact that mass shootings tend to happen in gun-free zones, e.g. where teachers are prohibited from carrying (which makes sense because a would-be mass shooter isn't expected to see a No Guns Allowed sign posted and think, "Well, I was going to commit a mass murder today but it's against the law to have guns here...").

So is there a reason on the level of the human soul as to why it is children specifically which have been used as the vehicle for pulling on the heart-strings of so many Americans? Is there a reason related to G-d's perfect system of justice, which works on the level of middah kineged middah (measure for measure)? Does this reason even point to the specific type of repentance we should focus on in our efforts to untie the knots with which our oppressors have bound us? Could it be possible that our nation's tolerance of abortion is very serious and very far gone, but not so far gone as to make us numb to the deaths of the born and that this warning sign can be used to show us all how vicious a crime abortion really is? We know that in G-d's eyes, a child has been murdered whether he or she gets shot or gets killed by the instruments of a callous doctor in an abortion clinic. If it is the former, that is the blood of man outside of man; if it is the latter, it is "the blood of man within man" (Gen. 9:6).

> The sages of the Talmud point out that the phrase "one who sheds the blood of man through man" is more accurately translated as "one who sheds the blood of man within man." Based on this Rabbi Ishmael learns that under ordinary circumstances the killing of a fetus is considered a capital offense for all descendants of Noah, i.e., humankind. [10]

Miscellaneous*:

More clues to consider.

Maybe this plural form "bloods" is a clue that whenever there is murder, there is a risk that the possible future descendants/entire family line of the victim are also being murdered. But nowhere is this more obviously a problem than with the unborn because they have not had a chance to yet have any children of their own.

I would guess...the time period (approximately the gestation period of a human being) is meant to point the way to nation-scale repentance which will restore gun rights: general repentance with a premium on pro-life efforts.

People running around openly carrying/openly displaying what should be concealed (their body parts) are reducing the gun rights of our society and should be encouraged to live life G-d's way: with modesty.

Shfichos damim* ("spilling of bloods"). One of the Seven Noahide Laws is the Prohibition of Murder which is called in Hebrew "spilling of bloods." Here we see the same plural form "bloods" as we saw previously with Cain and Abel. Maybe this plural form "bloods" is a clue that whenever there is murder, there is a risk that the possible future descendants/entire family line of the victim are also being murdered. But nowhere is this more obviously a problem than with the unborn because they have not had a chance to yet have any children of their own.

"8–12 months": middah kineged middah. Oregon Firearms Federation (OFF) has reported that the waiting period for buying guns at shops is 8–12 months. Thank G-d, a federal judge has blocked implementation of Measure 114 so this extreme waiting period represents the existing "instant background checks"! Given that mankind is excited to know a baby is on the way, the same must be all the more true for the Creator. A pregnant mother is said to be "expectant." So gun owners are expectant when waiting for their purchases to be transferred, most especially in a time when gun rights are under vicious attack. I would guess the warning sign built into this long waiting period is a hint to all gun owners that the right to buy guns is almost gone and the gun transfer time period (approximately the gestation period of a human being) is meant to point the way to nation-scale repentance which will restore gun rights: general repentance with a premium on pro-life efforts. There can be no doubt that G-d has waited many times for 8 or 9 or more months only to see the baby killed. It's not so uncommon for premature babies to be born one month early (at 8 months).

Open carry. A shortage of examples was provided in my assertion that there is great geographic precision in G-d's apportioning of unconstitutional gun laws. This lack of examples was in the interest of not shaming the people of certain areas of our country. But generally, some of the areas in warm climates which have a beach culture are among the most oppressed in terms of reduced gun rights. It almost goes without saying that walking around with almost zero clothing would encourage sexual promiscuity and promiscuity would itself later encourage and increase abortion. One warm part of the USA moved to ban open carry of firearms recently. Thankfully, the U.S. Supreme Court struck this down but I think the message is clear: people running around openly carrying/openly displaying what should be concealed (their body parts) are reducing the gun rights of our society and should be encouraged to live life G-d's way: with modesty (for girls this is extra important).

Without banning pornography, real publishing freedom will not be within sight in the USA.

Clearly, in G-d's system of justice and in His world, bans will happen in terms of what is published. The choice is ours as to whether what gets banned is the good or the bad.

Mankind will guard the tongue. The choice is ours as to whether what gets banned is the good or the bad.

The new "Big Brother" surveillance state is here to remind us of an eternal reality of G-d's world: "Know what there is above you: an eye that sees, an ear that hears, and all your deeds are written in a book."

Guarding the tongue G-d's way will remove from mankind the yoke of government thought-police.

A ban on pornography would yield greater freedom in the USA. Recently, a bill passed in Florida which was termed the "Don't Say Gay" act by its opponents. The bill should at least prevent children from being exposed to pornography in public schools. Those on the right who have supported this bill have been criticized for "banning books." If pornography were banned in this country, there can be no doubt we would have much greater publishing freedom. For the last few years, the federal government and those on the left have called for the banning of various religious and political books and other media written by the religious right. The comparison with the book-burning campaign of the Nazis and the trend for various nations, historically, to burn wagon loads of Talmuds is not hard to draw. But now the religious right is being criticized because graphic materials are not being shown for sexualizing young children and this is, according to some, "banning books." I suggest that in G-d's universe there is only room for so much publishing freedom and right now the bad is crowding out the good. Without banning pornography, real publishing freedom will not be within sight in the USA. With a ban on pornography, promiscuity will be less tolerated so abortions will decline. Clearly, in G-d's system of justice and in His world, bans will happen in terms of what is published. The choice is ours as to whether what gets banned is the good or the bad.

"Political correctness." This is not the most closely related topic to abortion but serves as another example or illustration for readers to understand the concept of limited freedom in particular arenas within G-d's world. Mankind will guard the tongue. The choice is ours as to whether what gets banned is the good or the bad.

We have seen there have been vicious and increasing efforts to bully all Americans into aligning with what I'd call "intolerance in the name of tolerance," "forced compliance in the name of diversity," and even "racism in the name of antiracism." And a proposal for HARPA, a secret health agency named after DARPA, was attributed as the idea of the Trump administration. It would surveil speech of Americans through many wireless wristwatches to see if certain individuals were sane enough to own a gun. The project later had its name changed to ARPA-H and was attributed as the idea of the Biden administration. The new "Big Brother" surveillance state is here to remind us of an eternal reality of G-d's world: "Know what there is above you: an eye that sees, an ear that hears, and all your deeds are written in a book." [11] Guarding the tongue G-d's way will remove from mankind the yoke of government thought-police. My music video should promote this soon!

A mechanism by which voting can make a real difference is by establishing some merit in Heaven for that society that is casting good votes (even if counted dishonestly), resulting in good changes here on the ground...voting for a righteous candidate is actually a good deed which should be able to have some real impact.

If an entire population voting for pro-life candidates isn't meritorious enough to stop the dictatorship on its own, then maybe it will open the door for other good deeds to finish the job.

The clear lens of middah kineged middah ("measure for measure") has the potential to unlock so much freedom.

"There must be something I am doing or our society is doing that is causing this. Measure for measure, we are getting what we deserve."

Follow the clues!

Voter fraud. In recent American history, allegations of voter fraud have been very common. Back before this was the case, Rabbi Yosef Kamenetsky believed that voting did not make a difference simply because of the obvious small impact one vote is expected to have statistically. However, he did vote in order to honor his mother (extremely important) who said he should vote. Another rabbi has suggested that a mechanism by which voting can make a real difference is by establishing some merit in Heaven for that society that is casting good votes (even if they are being counted dishonestly), resulting in good changes here on the ground. Even if the computers and/or individuals counting the earthly votes are compromised, voting for a righteous candidate is actually a good deed which should be able to have some real impact. For non-Jewish people, the underlying mechanism of such small good deeds making an impact is a kind of social contagion like this:

> 1: It is natural for man's character to be drawn after the thoughts and actions of his friends and associates, and for him to follow the norms of the people of his country. Therefore, one must associate with righteous and be constantly in the company of the wise, so as to learn from their deeds. Conversely, he should keep away from the wicked who walk in darkness, so as not to learn from their deeds. This is what Shlomo [King Solomon] said "He who walks with the wise will become wise; he who walks with the foolish will be destroyed (Proverbs 13:20); and what is said "Happy is the man…" (Psalms 1:1)

The Constitution Party of Oregon suspects or believes that every state in the USA has had massive voter fraud for years in local elections. Voting for the best candidate is probably not enough for our society to escape the cruel yoke under which it is laboring but it is worthwhile and valuable! We must never give up on our own redemption. If an entire population voting for pro-life candidates isn't meritorious enough to stop the dictatorship on its own, then maybe it will open the door for other good deeds to finish the job.

A clear lens. Looking at the world through the clear lens of middah kineged middah ("measure for measure") has the potential to unlock so much freedom. Don't be the reactionary who merely sees something bad and says, "this is bad." He later sees something else that's bad and says, "this is bad, too." If we are seeing restrictions to our freedoms in one area or another area, we should go ahead and say, "There must be something I am doing or our society is doing that is causing this. Measure for measure, we are getting what we deserve." Follow the clues!

At about 73 million deaths per year, abortion is the number one cause of death worldwide.

If abortion isn't stopped, it may just cause another vehicle to be the number one cause of death worldwide: "gun control."

If gun control is accepted mathematically as the most dangerous political scheme of human history and it is known that gun rights activism is woefully ineffective on its own, then whatever policy causes gun control is actually more dangerous than gun control itself. That policy is abortion.

About 405,399 U.S. troops died in World War II and that certainly made headlines. About 2.29 times that many babies were aborted in the USA in 2020.

Some doctors and other humans here in the USA have been deciding that certain unborn lives are "lives unworthy of life."

Do the math. At about 73 million deaths per year, abortion is the number one cause of death worldwide. It is excluded from the World Health Organization's top 10 causes of death page. [13] If abortion isn't stopped, it may just cause another vehicle to be the number one cause of death worldwide: "gun control." If gun control is accepted mathematically (just based on the number of deaths) as the most dangerous political scheme of human history and it is known that gun rights activism is woefully ineffective on its own, then whatever policy (if any) causes gun control is actually more dangerous than gun control itself. That policy is abortion. Or at least that is the thesis here in this report. What remains to be seen is whether others agree.

Based on the deaths from 2019–20, it would take 23 years for "coronavirus" to kill as many people as abortion has been killing in one year; but that calculation is based on the much lower WHO statistics on abortions per year globally. [14] As of 2016, China was aborting about 23 million babies per year, which is 10 million more per year than their government had been reporting recently. [15] Guttmacher reported 930,160 abortions in the USA from 2020 and over 1.5 million from 1991. [16] The USA's 2020 abortion deaths were almost 16 times the loss of US troops in the entire Vietnam War. [16a] If we round up that 930,160 number for 2020 and say that is around 1 million per year, that means that for every ~334 people alive today in America, one baby is being killed each year. Would that be enough to satisfy a bloodthirsty pagan idol? In 2020, about 1 in 5 pregnancies in the USA ended in abortion, says Guttmacher. [17] About 405,399 U.S. troops died in World War II and that certainly made headlines. [18] About 2.29 times that many babies were aborted in the USA in 2020 but that was kept relatively quiet.

"Lives unworthy of life." Today there is a prominent organization which promotes the idea of valuing the lives of Black people but has not been doing the same for babies or Black babies. I noticed there is already a pro-life organization called Baby Lives Matter so that means the name I wanted to use has already been taken. It is a Christian organization. So they should read Rabbi Tovia Singer's book and thereby easily become Noahides. But the name is a good one. Leading up to the Holocaust, the Nazis advanced a goal of killing off the weak, crippled, and disabled in the name of creating a master race. But some doctors and other humans here in the USA have been deciding that certain unborn lives are "lives unworthy of life."

Is it really so outlandish to say that this great crime which annually dwarfs the total number of U.S. WWII troop deaths could lead to another Holocaust because of Divine justice?

U.S. parents hired doctors to become rodfim*, lethal pursuers, of their own children. If an abortion doctor is hired, G-d forbid, he is then in pursuit of the life of the unborn child(ren); he's coming for their child(ren).*

Frequently, those "coming for [America's] children" are coercing many into accepting pharmaceutical products.

Could much of the power of the vaccine dictatorship be undermined through national repentance with special emphasis on ending the crime of abortion?

Will ending abortion help loosen the grip of CPS?

"Don't talk about politics and religion" is meant to prevent the end of the dictatorship because when we all get both politics and religion right, it's 'game over' for anyone wanting to do evil to us and they are out of a job.

"They're coming for your children." Some organizations, institutions, and groups have been coming for the children of American parents. Implying or directly stating they intend to warp the minds of the youth, groups that promote sexual immorality have declared "we're coming for your children" or made similar statements openly. (This is the opposite of the premise behind Parents' Rights in Education.) It almost goes without saying that if the religious right said "We're coming for your children" or similar, it might be taken as a violent threat and the speaker declared a terrorist. But this is all measure for measure; U.S. parents hired doctors to become rodfim, lethal pursuers, of their own children. If an abortion doctor is hired, G-d forbid, he is then in pursuit of the life of the unborn child(ren); he's coming for their child(ren). And for those who oppose abortion, it's important to have a positive influence on others in the neighborhood, town, nation, etc. It's not enough to do the right thing and pretend not to care about everyone else. Frequently, those "coming for [America's] children" are coercing many into accepting pharmaceutical products. Could much of the power of the vaccine dictatorship be undermined through national repentance with special emphasis on ending the crime of abortion?

Child Protective Services. Readers are probably aware that the religious right (it's good to be right all the time; why would anyone want to be among the secular wrong?) are likely not the most favorite parents in the eyes of some within CPS organizations in our country. Doing the right thing and refusing all vaccinations and using the services of midwives (praised in the Jewish Bible for their bravery at the time of the Exodus) and refusing public school in favor of something better are the kind of truly responsible actions that have made CPS weaponizers 'frown' or even spurred them to persecute the good parents and favor the government-approved parents. Why would a nation need Child Protective Services, services for protecting children? Maybe that nation has been killing its own children and needs a warning sign from Heaven in the form of what has been a dangerous government agency tasked all too often with undermining the rights of parents and an ironic name that serves as a signpost pointing the way out, pointing to the light at the edge of the darkness. Will ending abortion help loosen the grip of CPS?

"Don't talk about politics and religion." Maybe readers have noticed this has virtually been a slogan from the legacy media or at least a slogan inserted into Americans' lives. It's meant to prevent the end of the dictatorship because when we all get both politics and religion right, it's 'game over' for anyone wanting to do evil to us and they are out of a job. Note: even some grandchildren of Haman, the first man who plotted to kill all the Jews (as related in the Book of Esther), repented.

"All lives are Mine. As is the life of the father, so is the life of the son; [only] the one who sins shall die."
(Ezekiel 18:4)

Maybe the 'ghosts,' so to speak, of the murdered unborn are 'coming back to haunt us,' so to speak, with the great evil of anti-gun regulations of which the USA became deserving because of the blood on its 'hands,' the blood of children.

Abel, an individual, also would have fit Definition 4b of "stock" if he had not been murdered because he would have fathered many people...bump could be related to the term "baby bump," a colloquial term for the bulge of a pregnant woman's belly.

Parents hired doctors to get rid of moms' "bump stocks." Is it the central measure-for-measure reason why bump stocks are assailable today?

Support for G-d's ownership of us. The Radvaz has a commentary on Rambam, Laws of Sanhedrin 18:6. There he uses this verse to derive that a person does not own himself:

> All lives are Mine. As is the life of the father, so is the life of the son; [only] the one who sins shall die. (Ezekiel 18:4)

"Ghost guns." Maybe this is a clue in the language to which we should pay attention. Maybe it means that the 'ghosts,' so to speak, of the murdered unborn are 'coming back to haunt us,' so to speak, with the great evil of anti-gun regulations of which the USA became deserving because of the blood on its 'hands,' the blood of children. And obviously, gun control is one of the most reliably genocidal policies in world history and could lead to the rest of us adults becoming 'ghosts,' so to speak, G-d forbid, through the banning of unregistered/homemade guns without serial numbers and other evil regulations (there is a saying that "registration always leads to confiscation": it's clear that knowing where all guns are is the goal of such policies).

Bump stocks. These accessories can make semi-automatic rifles fire very quickly as an attempt at getting closer to the rate of fire of a fully automatic machine gun. They have had known accuracy problems and require a great deal of skill to operate compared to fully automatic guns but could potentially help militia groups to be somewhat more capable of protecting our country. But there is a push to ban these, too. (Note: Full auto is better; may we deserve the best weapons.) But maybe the wording is important. Let's try breaking this into two words.

I found at a very popular online dictionary site (immodest photos/won't be named here) a definition of "stock" which many have heard in sayings like, "He's of Italian stock." In Definition 4a listed there, it means a group of descendants or family line. In Definition 4b, it instead means the original person those are all descended from. Previously, we talked about how murder, including abortion, prevents the lives of all future descendants of the murdered individual. So "stock" (Definition 4a) can mean family line. But Abel, an individual, also would have fit Definition 4b of "stock" if he had not been murdered because he would have fathered many people. That's why it was the voice of his "bloods" (plural). A stock could be fully grown or developing.

Bump could be related to the term "baby bump," a colloquial term for the bulge of a pregnant woman's belly.

Parents hired doctors to get rid of moms' "bump stocks." Since everything is by Divine Providence, not by accident, this wording could be the clue. Is it the central measure-for-measure reason why bump stocks are assailable today?

There are some good people in both the CIA and the FBI. The good ones won't get fired or prevented from getting higher leadership roles once the nation turns to G-d and thereby deserves to have righteous government.

We all know deep down that the Founding Fathers, if alive today, would probably all be labeled "conspiracy theorists" and each of them would also probably be on a terrorist watch list maintained by subversive leadership in one of the government agencies.

Our world is built so we can have real free will. If people were constantly afraid because around every corner was a thought-reading policeman ready to whack them with a baton if they got out of line in their thinking, they would have no more free will than one who avoids getting his necktie stuck in the gears of heavy machinery.

There are some good people in the agencies. Problems with CIA and FBI have been mentioned here in this report. Obviously, there are some good people with good intentions in both groups. My understanding is that many in significant leadership positions in both agencies must be the subversive ones rather than the entirety of each agency because of the results of the compartmentalized, "need to know" structure. But I believe our nation will not suffer from the good people getting fired for doing good and never getting into high leadership positions at CIA or FBI or other alphabet agencies once the nation turns to G-d and thereby deserves to have righteous government.

The real reason why freedom is important. It would be easy for anyone to think the reason why this report is promoting freedom (including freedom in the specific area of gun rights) because people like us used to be tolerated and now in certain parts of the country we are less tolerated. After all, we all know deep down that the Founding Fathers, if alive today, would probably all be labeled "conspiracy theorists" and each of them would also probably be on a terrorist watch list maintained by subversive leadership in one of the government agencies. It's safe to say we all know deep down that the federal government has intentions of marching forward with the ridiculous premise that the religious right is the number one threat to homeland security. There have been many recent examples of news stories to that effect. While these are great reasons to promote freedom, they aren't the most foundational reason.

G-d created mankind to function with true free will. Readers know that I'm a Noahide, a non-Jew who keeps the Seven Noahide Laws, and that I learn with some Orthodox rabbis about Torah Law relevant for non-Jewish people. So one of them made a point to me recently that if a harsh dictator forced all of his nation to keep the Seven Noahide Laws, it would be a sin for him and it would be contrary to G-d's design. Our world is built in such a way so we can have real free will. But if people were constantly afraid because around every corner was a thought-reading policeman ready to whack them with a baton if they got a little out of line in their thinking, they would have no more free will than someone who avoids getting his necktie stuck in the gears of heavy machinery.

Acknowledgment: I did not come up with this idea 'on my own.' This concept about why dictatorship is bad and freedom is good was related to me by an Orthodox rabbi. As sources, he recommended the Rambam's Teshuva 5:3–4 [18a] and the Ramban's Shaar HaGemul, Paragraph 3 [18b].

"Sin Engineering"*:

The dictators' attempt at preserving their own ruling power.

Medical choice is very important to the dictators, just as long as that medical choice is to kill babies.

These are efforts by G-d's enemies to engineer sin into the fabric of the dictatorship as an insurance policy against any possible future freedom. For our purposes, let's call it "sin engineering."

The electronic equivalent of book-burning is being recommended as a way to prevent the book-burning and other evils of another Nazi dictatorship.

Rabbi Yossi said: "The son of David will not come until all the souls have emptied from their spiritual abode and have been born in this physical world."

WE HAVE SEEN THAT MEDICAL CHOICE IS VERY IMPORTANT to a group that wants all American voters to believe a certain way, just as long as that medical choice is to kill babies. It appears that they believe the government should make and force every medical decision except for baby-killing or no baby-killing. That is the status today. What about tomorrow? On that trajectory, government-forced abortions would seem inevitable unless people turn to G-d with their actions and stop deserving tyranny. Forced abortions have been common in China. And a lockdown enforcement drone there said: "Please comply with covid restrictions. Control your soul's desire for freedom. Do not open the window or sing." [19] So I would suggest this lack of choice (except between baby-killing or no baby-killing) is because they want to set up a scenario where the American public has no choices available except the choice to do a sin (in this case the free will decision available to kill babies) and then push the American to choose the sin. These are efforts by G-d's enemies to engineer sin into the fabric of the dictatorship as an insurance policy against any possible future freedom so that the population is always (in their plan) deserving in G-d's eyes of more dictatorship if it continues to sin.

It was only around 10 years ago that censorship was repugnant to the USA as an indicator of communism, e.g. the well-known Chinese internet censorship controls to prevent journalism. Today, censorship is being widely recommended as the way to prevent another Nazi dictatorship. So the electronic equivalent of book-burning is being recommended as a way to prevent the book-burning and other evils of another Nazi dictatorship. You can't make this stuff up. Engineering sin into the fabric of a dictatorship to keep the dictatorship in power due to the nation being deserving of tyranny in G-d's eyes as long as sin continues is a long thing to say in one breath. So for our purposes, let's call it "sin engineering."

Abortion to delay the messiah. A Torah source could lend support to the idea of sin engineering being used in the USA in modern times. This one was recommended to me by someone:

> Rabbi Yossi said: "The son of David will not come until all the souls have emptied from their spiritual abode and have been born in this physical world." [20]

The Jewish messiah (definitely a man and not G-d) will not be revealed in our world until we have reached a certain critical mass of children born on the earth. Abortion is possibly the very most direct way of preventing that.

The idea that Esav didn't want to accept the part of the Divine Prohibition of Murder which prohibited killing unborn babies is the explanation given by Rabbi Moshe Feinstein.

At its worst, the nation of Edom/Esav (Esau) is described as one "which will not respect the elderly" or "show favor to the young."

Our nation, the USA, is identified as Edom/Esav (Esau), the continuation of the Roman Empire, by the observant (Orthodox) Jews. So we'd better be sure it is a righteous 'Rome.'

So this means that the Jewish messiah (definitely a man and not G-d) will not be revealed in our world until we have reached a certain critical mass of children born on the earth. Abortion is possibly the very most direct way of preventing that. So we have to have a positive influence on everyone to stop this terrible crime.

Someone recommended another source on the topic of abortion and explained this to me: "The sons of Esav (Esau) did not want to accept the Torah because they could not bear the restriction on murder." [21] Esav is Edom/Rome.

I was also told that when abortion was coming to be legalized in the Land of Israel, Rabbi Moshe Feinstein spoke out in opposition to it, saying that the sons of Esav were opposed only parts of the Divine Prohibition of Murder: they wanted to define murder rather than follow G-d's definition. [Comment: Esav is identified as the father of Rome and is known to be a builder. Builders couldn't kill their entire populations at that time.] So the idea that Esav didn't want to accept the part of the Divine Prohibition of Murder which prohibited killing unborn babies is the explanation given by Rabbi Moshe Feinstein. [22]

At worst, the nation of Edom/Esav (Esau) is described as one "which will not respect the elderly" nor "show favor to the young." Our nation has been swiftly killing its elderly in throw-away centers called nursing homes (which don't have raw milk so I don't know how they would get started nursing someone back to health) and murdering its young at a rate of about 1 million per year. Our nation is identified as Edom/Esav (Esau), the continuation of the Roman Empire, by the observant (Orthodox) Jews. The eagle is a symbol of Rome but also on the Divine chariot. It doesn't have to symbolize evil empire as here:

> [49]The Lord will bring upon you a nation from afar, from the end of the earth, as the eagle swoops down, a nation whose language you will not understand,
> [50]a brazen nation, which will not respect the elderly, nor show favor to the young. Deuteronomy 28:49–50 [23]

Eagles care for young. At best, Esav can act as a force to promote peace, not merely avoid sin. Esav means "the deed of G-d."

Bilam's bad advice. The wicked non-Jewish prophet Bilam (Balaam) gave some very bad advice to the Midianites to turn Midianites away from a good choice in order to defeat the Jewish people. [24] The victory of the Jewish people was and is now predicated on keeping true to G-d's Instruction Manual. This is the real reason for their success and smarts (not because of a different "cranium"). After the Flood happened, the descendants

The king named Balak took Bilam's advice and set up a marketplace where the daughters of Midian would talk to the Jewish men. Then, just before the act of relations they were supposed to demand of each Jewish man that he perform a small service of idolatry to the idol Pe'or.

Clearly, this is a plain example of 'sin engineering' and it is most relevant to our world today where many are still making efforts to cause everyone to stumble in order to disconnect us all from G-d so we could be weakened and ultimately destroyed, G-d forbid.

Entire departments of foreign intelligence services have been tasked with producing pornography to destroy American men.

"There are a thousand hacking at the branches of evil to one who is striking at the root."

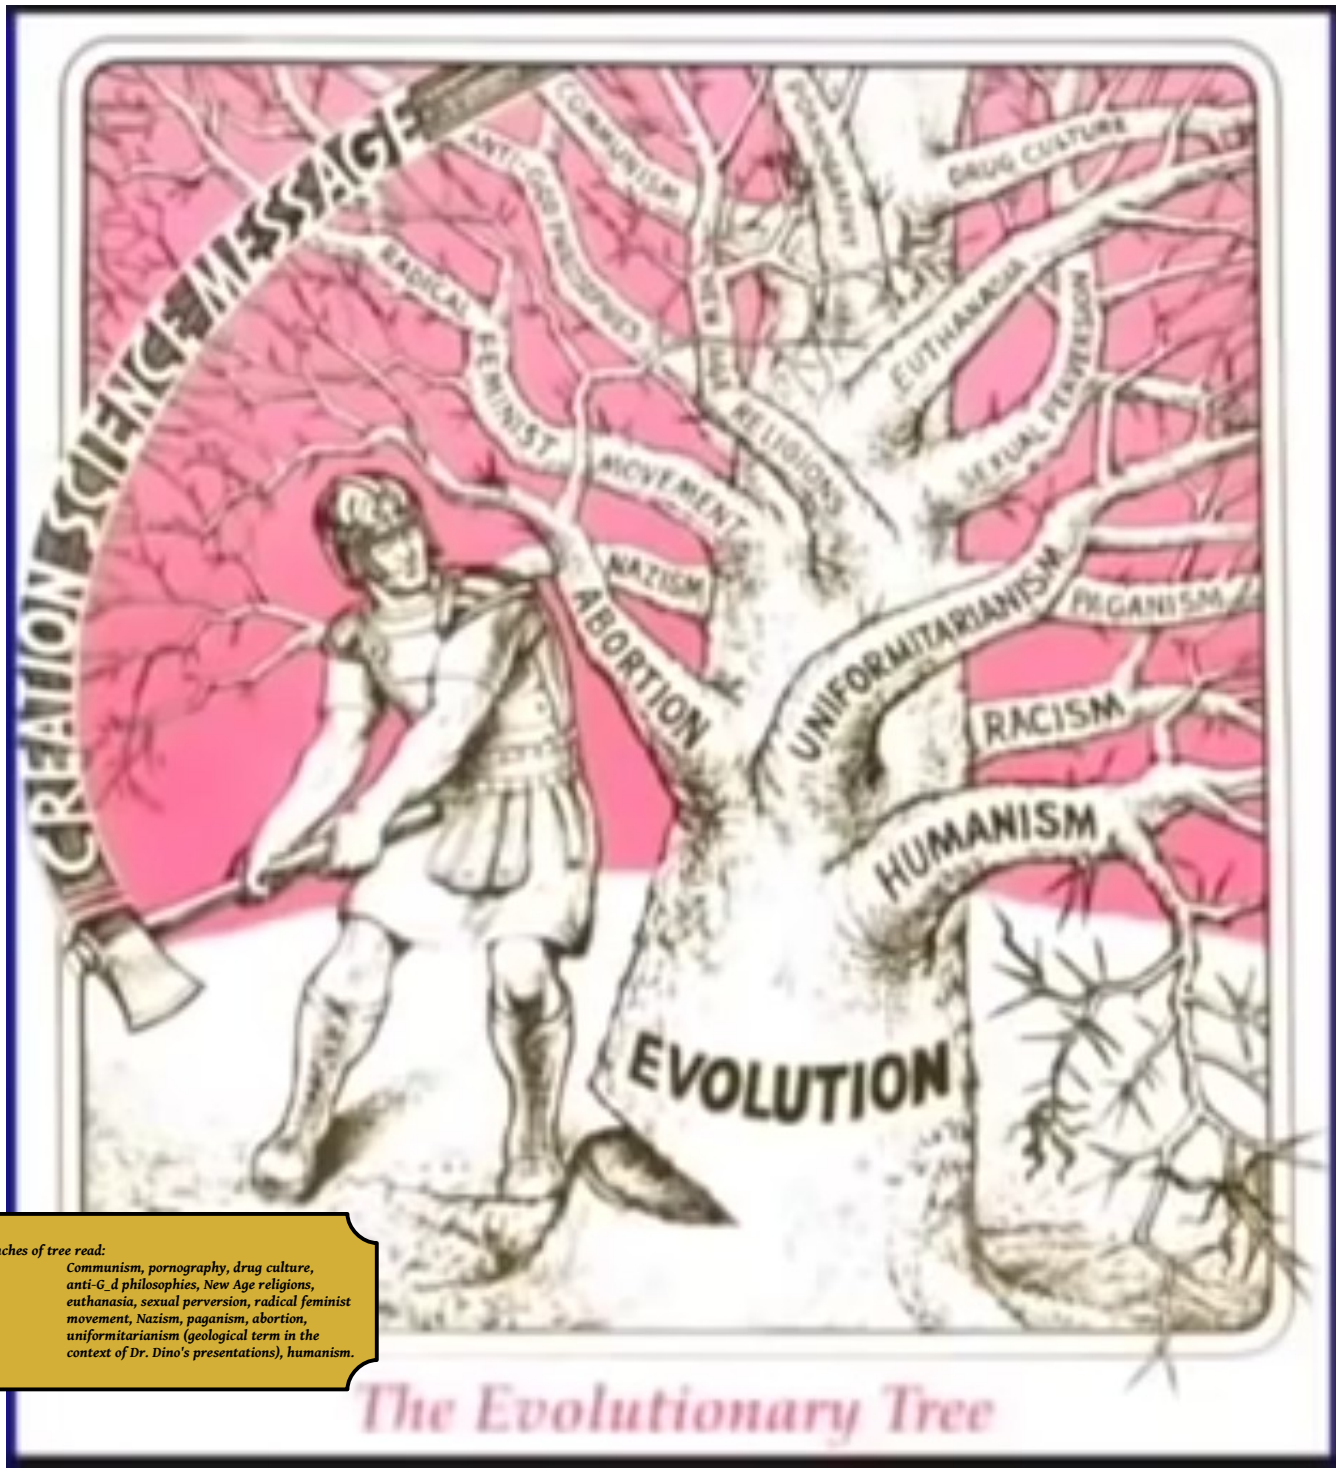

of Noach (Noah) decided that he was actually telling the truth about their commandment regarding forbidden sexual relations (Genesis 2:24) so it would be good for the nations to make a voluntary vow to not be involved in any relations outside of proper marriage. They feared a repeat of the great Flood which had punished the whole world partly on account of that sin. So the nations lived by their vow for many generations.

But when Midian wanted to ruin the Jewish people, they could not do it because of Divine favor. Along came Bilam and recommended that they send their daughters to entice the Jewish men to have relations. The king named Balak took Bilam's advice and set up a marketplace where the daughters of Midian would talk to the Jewish men. Then, just before the act of relations they were supposed to demand of each Jewish man that he perform a small service of idolatry to the idol Pe'or. This is the conspiracy that happened so long ago which shows how far people were willing to go in their desperate and hateful effort to destroy the Jewish people. Clearly, it is a plain example of 'sin engineering' and it is most relevant to our world today where many are still making efforts to cause everyone to stumble in order to disconnect us all from G-d so we could be weakened and ultimately destroyed, G-d forbid.

My guess is that abortion is a modern example of the use of 'sin engineering.' Yet another modern example of 'sin engineering': entire departments of foreign intelligence services have been tasked with producing pornography to destroy American men, according to Rabbi Yitzchok Dovid Smith. When someone knows there are shards of glass in a piece of strawberry shortcake, Rabbi Smith explains, he won't bite.

Evolution. Kent Hovind ("Dr. Dino") has never lost a debate to an evolutionist. His free 7-part Creation Seminar series was very useful and informative to me before I became a Noahide. His work is excellent, except for the fact that he's unintentionally following a false religion. As stated before, anyone can just read Rabbi Tovia Singer's book and clear that one up very fast.

Below, I have included a slide from one of his presentations. It's an illustration showing that abortion is one of the branches of the evil tree of evolution. It almost goes without saying that if you believe you are an animal, then your baby is only considered an animal in your eyes, too. Henry David Thoreau was quoted in one of Dr. Dino's presentations: "There are a thousand hacking at the branches of evil to one who is striking at the root." That's obviously the theme behind the illustration you'll see on the next page from his free presentation. And we can easily apply it to our topic of gun control here. I think it would be fair enough to make another similar illustration with an abortion tree and say that gun control, medical tyranny, and many other evils are its branches.

"There are a thousand hacking at the branches of evil to one who is striking at the root."
—Henry David Thoreau, as quoted in Creation Seminar 5

Topic 6: GENETIC FATALISM

Dr. Joel D. Wallach, DVM, ND, PostDoc(Path)*:

Pioneer in the field of epigenetics shows we've barely acknowledged a few nutrient deficiency diseases.

Just as the germ theory of disease transmission is dying, the genetic theory of disease transmission is also dying. But allopathic doctors and the monopoly that sustains them are clinging hard to the dying false belief.

The supposedly genetic disease cystic fibrosis can be induced in animals by giving too little of the trace mineral selenium or by administering corn oil in the food to counteract the benefits of selenium.

Mulberry heart disease (Keshan disease/ cardiomyopathy) is caused by selenium deficiency. The same kids had a high incidence of cystic fibrosis.

"You've got to go see this Doc Wallach. He treats you like a dog but you get better!"

ONE FORCE PUSHING EXPECTANT MOTHERS HARD in the direction of abortion is the false information given by doctors. There is also an entire industry of genetic counselors in place today. Psalm 1 warns us not to take the counsel of the unG-dly. Further, there is any number of tests (including very harmful tests like ultrasound) [24a] available to push mothers in the direction of many bad choices. Just as the germ theory of disease transmission is dying [24b], the genetic theory of disease transmission is also dying. But allopathic doctors and the monopoly that sustains them are clinging hard to the dying false belief.

Now for a short sampling of reasons not to believe in genetic fatalism. We're starting here with Dr. Wallach.

Dead Doctors Don't Lie. Anyone reading Dead Doctors Don't Lie by Joel D. Wallach DVM, ND, PostDoc(Path) will know that he discovered that the supposedly genetic disease cystic fibrosis can be induced in animals by giving too little of the trace mineral selenium or by administering corn oil in the food to counteract the benefits of selenium and will know how Dr. Wallach boldly crashed the NIH conference to deliver the speech he was invited (and later uninvited) to give to present his findings. He was fired from Yerkes Primate Center and blackballed so severely that word was sent to his next job (a veterinary job) in another state that they should not work with him because he was "a nut."

Virtually by himself, he completed what would have been a multi-author textbook, Diseases of Exotic Animals, an enormous book which I have verified with Smithsonian really is a part of their collection as Dr. Wallach claims. (Others had left the project during its progress so he wrote their chapters, too.)

He traveled to Keshan Province, China and found out that mulberry heart disease (Keshan disease/cardiomyopathy) is caused by selenium deficiency and documented that the same kids had a high incidence of—you guessed it—cystic fibrosis.

He got his ND at NCNM in Portland, OR and treated his human patients with nutrition and supplements in a veterinary style, i.e. "You've got to go see this Doc Wallach. He treats you like a dog but you get better!" He even treated people for hemorrhoids without exams and instead gave them copper so they would actually recover. All this was alongside or after his travels to Africa to deal with elephants and rhinos and his adventures managing and once rescuing a flooded zoo with all the animals escaping during the flood (a classic adventure story a lot like what happened with Noah). He found out that there are 60 minerals essential for all vertebrates and has taught millions through his humorous, exuberant, unmatched presentation style to take control of their own health by using the nutrients G-d provides us with.

In Dead Doctors Don't Lie*, you can read about adventures managing and once rescuing a flooded zoo with all the animals escaping during the flood (a classic adventure story a lot like what happened with Noah).*

A premise of Epigenetics: The Death of the Genetic Theory of Disease Transmission*: "Every birth defect you can name and ten times that many you can't* [name] are caused by nutritional deficiencies."

Lauren Knievel, relative of Evel Knievel, had a Down's syndrome pregnancy, was told to abort. Dr. Wallach advised her to take all essential nutrients plus extra zinc, the most important for Down's syndrome and especially important for normal DNA function...she had a normal baby.

Epigenetics. One of Doc Wallach's more recent books is called Epigenetics: The Death of the Genetic Theory of Disease Transmission. According to Doc Wallach, "Every birth defect you can name and ten times that many you can't [name] are caused by nutritional deficiencies." So Down's syndrome is best seen as an epigenetic disease. It could be passed on to children if certain conditions are favorable for that, but it can also be reversed up to 3 months into pregnancy, says Dr. Wallach. He says that Lauren Knievel, relative of the motorcycle stunt rider Evel Knievel, had a Down's syndrome pregnancy and was told by her doctor to abort. She instead called Dr. Wallach, who advised her to take all the essential nutrients with special emphasis on zinc, the most important for Down's syndrome and well-known to be especially important for normal DNA function. Dr. Wallach reports that she had a normal baby. Epigenetics is a book that covers many birth defects and shows, for instance, around pages 200–201 that sickle cell anemia (called thalassemia in white people) can be induced by selenium deficiency in white-tailed deer.

Black Gene Lies: Slave Quarter Cures. Another great book by Dr. Wallach is Black Gene Lies: Slave Quarter Cures. Black people are being told a big falsehood by their doctors, who are trained to say that there is a Black gene responsible for high blood pressure and other problems. Of course, high blood pressure is mainly a calcium deficiency (as is the cause for muscle cramps). So the Black population is, in Doc Wallach's terminology, being treated "like an ATM machine" by its doctors because they are being told that everything is genetic. The Amish are another population famous for their "genetic" diseases. Naturally, this fiercely independent group is probably expected to be slandered as being "inbred" or other nonsense. But in truth, they don't import their food and (until Dr. Wallach's work) generally didn't supplement so were missing a lot of those 60 essential minerals.

My conclusions. Aneurysms are prevented with copper. Type II diabetes is reversed with chromium, vanadium, and their 23 cofactors. Muscular dystrophy is prevented (and improved in adulthood) with selenium (and white muscle disease in cattle is the analog). The list goes on and on. The more one digs, the more one realizes that G-d has provided abundantly for us and we just didn't realize that we can't make a design defect claim on our genes and sue G-d. And this is just one nutritional school of thought we've brushed the surface of. It took me about 5 years to warm up to Dr. Wallach's information because I initially had concerns he was exaggerating his claims to sell more of the supplements. After all, Youngevity is a Fortune 500 company. But I have been able to independently verify so much of what he says that I actually see zero reason to suspect any of it has been exaggerated in the slightest. So far, so good. Further, he's never made a penny off of Youngevity and willed it to his family so that he makes his living off of his books, CDs, DVDs, etc.

The more one digs, the more one realizes that G-d has provided abundantly for us and we just didn't realize that we can't make a design defect claim on our genes and sue G-d.

The Weston A. Price Foundation*:

Neither blindness nor skeletal and dental deformities are genetic.

WAPF has shown time and again that its adherents are able to produce extremely healthy children with a wide middle third of the face, allowing for room for the wisdom teeth and no crowding or cavities or crooked teeth (even though the parents had crooked, crowded teeth; wisdom tooth extraction; and cavities). What greater proof could there be that the genetic theory is essentially bunk?

Vitamin A deficient pigs gave birth to blind pigs. Those blind pigs were given vitamin A and gave birth to normally sighted pigs.

FUNDAMENTAL TO WAPF IS THE KNOWLEDGE FROM THE TRADITIONAL CULTURES found by Dr. Price, the world's greatest dentist. These were people who did not have crowded and crooked teeth or suffer from cavities and who had robust skeletal structure allowing for easier childbirth by the women and greater athletic accomplishment by the men. This was not caused by chewing on tough foods for hours on end, no. It was caused by intake of the nutrients needed for construction of the ideal human skeleton.

To Dr. Price's dismay, he did not find any vegan cultures with solid enough dental and skeletal health to meet his very reasonable standards. Most of the nutrients needed for this purpose were found in special, nutrient-dense animal foods: whole, raw, grass-fed dairy; organ meats; special seafoods; animal fats; etc. Some plant foods were prepared with care to maximize nutrition and minimize harm from plant toxins. WAPF has shown time and again that its adherents are able to produce extremely healthy children with a wide middle third of the face, allowing for room for the wisdom teeth and no crowding or cavities or crooked teeth (even though the parents had crooked, crowded teeth; wisdom tooth extraction; and cavities). What greater proof could there be that the genetic theory is essentially bunk? It also shows that wisdom teeth are not a relic of "evolution."

Vitamin A and blindness. WAPF has also emphasized that a study was done on pigs showing that vitamin A deficient pigs gave birth to blind pigs. Those blind pigs were given vitamin A and gave birth to normally sighted pigs. A contemporary of Dr. Price, Dr. Francis Pottenger, was able to study cat diets. He gave them raw meat and raw milk and they thrived. But when he gave cooked meat and pasteurized milk, they developed more and more frail skeletons with each generation and ultimately produced no more cats (no more reproduction).

No fillings for about 30 cavities I got around 4 years ago. Many visibly remineralized; the rest became inactive.

Cure Tooth Decay. Aggressively applying the WAPF school of thought to my own life, I was able to avoid any and all fillings for about 30 or so cavities I suddenly got around 4 years ago. Many have visibly remineralized but the rest were made inactive. Thank G-d for that! Both Cure Tooth Decay and Cure Gum Disease Naturally were instrumental books in my learning there. These are just a few examples from a nutritional school of thought which is just as vast as that of Dr. Wallach.

More reasons why parents should be hopeful and not in despair!

Dr. Natasha Campbell-McBride MD was able to cure her son of autism with the GAPS nutritional protocol and he now has a normal life.

Both The GAPS Diet and the Body Ecology Diet are focused on healing and sealing the small intestine.

A method of growing food from the Garden of Eden has been rediscovered. Chapter 3 of my book manuscript (free on the website) shows how this should be done.

Olive leaf is said to be able to restore the genetically lost ability of mankind to produce vitamin C from glucose.

The GAPS Diet and Body Ecology Diet. The GAPS Diet is known to reverse autism. Its inventor, a Russian neurologist by the name of Natasha Campbell-McBride, MD, MMedSci(Neurology), MMedSci(Nutrition), was able to cure her son of autism and he now has a normal life. Many others have reported recoveries from autism and other diseases through use of the GAPS nutritional protocol. Certified GAPS Practitioners are available to give the needed help. There is also the Body Ecology Diet. Autistic children have also reportedly fully recovered with that diet protocol, with the use of young green coconut kefir being an important part of the routine. Both diets are focused on healing and sealing the small intestine and restoring beneficial microbes/eliminating those which are no longer helping. I would caution that the Body Ecology Diet book does recommend, just in passing, a horrible and dangerous New Age yoga/meditation practice which has been known to make people go insane (and for anyone who lost their minds to yoga or similar, I'd recommend the work of Rabbi Gutman Locks, e.g. Coming Back to Earth).

Growing food as in the Garden of Eden. As if those weren't enough reasons for mankind to be hopeful enough to trust G-d and not kill their children, a method of growing food from the Garden of Eden has been rediscovered. Chapter 3 of my book manuscript (free on the website) shows how this should be done and goes into detail about the documentary that publicized it.

Restoration of Vitamin C Synthesis? I'm new to this one. Vitamin C proponent Dr. Thomas Levy (not all book covers are modest so they could be painted over or otherwise covered over by wives for their husbands) maintains that hydroxytyrosol from olive leaf and olive oil can restore the genetically lost ability of mankind to produce vitamin C from glucose. (WARNING: 75–80% of olive oil was shown to be fraudulent on the shelves of USA

Other animals are able to make vitamin C, with guinea pigs being one well-known exception.

"Let my food be as bitter as an olive in the hands of the Holy One, blessed be He, and not as sweet as honey in the hands of flesh and blood."

stores as of May 2015; vegetable oil is the deadliest thing in the food supply.) Other animals are able to make vitamin C, with guinea pigs being one well-known exception. If Dr. Levy's assertion is true, then a defect understood to be part of all mankind can be repaired or restored or at the very least compensated for. It would make sense. The olive leaf is already known to be therapeutic and the olive leaf found in the mouth of the dove in Genesis 8:11 is obviously a picture of independence from mankind and dependence on G-d because Rashi's commentary there includes an explanation of the dove's actions as if it were saying: "Let my food be as bitter as an olive in the hands of the Holy One, blessed be He, and not as sweet as honey in the hands of flesh and blood." [25]

We should be independent of wicked and/or G-dless men for our health and not buy into genetic fatalism.

Conclusions:

Even without the hope-inspiring information above, G-d's commandments would be the same!

There is much low-hanging fruit in the pioneering field of discovering nutrient deficiency diseases, most of which are being labeled genetic.

The false theories behind scurvy, pellagra, and beriberi vanished when the missing nutrients were found.

Good news: Orthodox Judaism teaches that before G-d creates the problem, He creates the solution.

Even if this were not true, G-d's commandments still would have to be followed.

ALL OF THE PRECEDING OVERVIEWS OF VARIOUS NUTRITIONAL SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT show that there is much low-hanging fruit in the pioneering field of discovering nutrient deficiency diseases, most of which are being labeled genetic. Currently, most doctors are only familiar with scurvy (vitamin C), pellagra (vitamin B_3), and beriberi (vitamin B_1) and maybe a few others. The false theories behind those diseases vanished when the missing nutrients were found. At this point, there is no telling how many illnesses will be confirmed as simple nutrient deficiencies or multiple nutrient deficiencies. I mentioned just a fraction here.

However, even if this were not true, G-d's commandments still would have to be followed. In theory, even if there were not such an abundance of cures available for "genetic" diseases, we would still be required to follow G-d's commandments. But good news: Orthodox Judaism teaches that before G-d creates the problem, He creates the solution. So any who have been considering abortion should take a great deal of hope (and maybe some information) from this section of the report.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF...

Cystic fibrosis	Skeletal/dental deformities
Down's syndrome	Rampant tooth decay in Baby
Muscular dystrophy	Gestational diabetes
Autism	"Incurable" diseases
Blindness	"Rare" genetic diseases
Sickle cell anemia/thalassemia	Inborn errors of metabolism

...OR ANYTHING ELSE OTHER THAN G-D!

Mass murder leads to mass murder*:

What appears to be a mere natural phenomenon is part of G-d's system of Divine justice.

Canada's huge physician-assisted suicide program (4% of 2022 deaths) is trying to get children included. That was the beginning of the Holocaust in the days of Nazi Germany when doctors killed the weak, crippled, disabled, and "lives unworthy of life."

I would suggest the spiritual mechanics of G-d's universe, which we cannot violate even if we want to, do not allow for absolute freedom on the part of mankind.

It is most likely that the so-called "freedom" to have an abortion and the actual freedom of gun rights are mutually exclusive in the Heavenly Court. Maybe the so-called "freedom" to have an abortion and all real medical freedoms are mutually exclusive in the Heavenly Court.

MASS MURDER LEADS TO MASS MURDER. It's not merely some cultural shift characterized by the gradual Nazification of one country or another. Instead, it's Divine justice. It is clear that G-d punished certain cities or nations for their sins in parts of the Jewish Bible. It is a basic, essential concept in Orthodox Judaism that geographic areas from one individual up to a city or up to a nation can be punished by G-d for sins. Again, it is on a geographic basis that punishments are carried out.

Oregon Family Council [26] says that in 1969, Oregon became the first state to legalize abortion; and in 1999, Oregon became the first government in the world to legalize physician-assisted suicide. Currently, there are no restrictions on abortion in Oregon and taxpayer dollars fund both abortion and assisted suicide. Note that Rabbi Yitzchok Dovid Smith exposed that Canada, having a large physician-assisted suicide program already, is trying to get kids into physician-assisted suicide. That was the beginning of the Holocaust in the days of Nazi Germany when doctors killed the weak, crippled, disabled, and "lives unworthy of life."

Every facet of the dictatorship under which we live is decreed by G-d for our benefit. We should see it all as a merciful wake-up call. I would suggest the spiritual mechanics of G-d's universe, which we cannot violate even if we want to, do not allow for absolute freedom on the part of mankind. (And even libertarians, many of whom don't really believe in G-d, would agree at least that absolute freedom would not work).

Here it's been argued that it is most likely that the so-called "freedom" to have an abortion and the actual freedom to have gun rights are mutually exclusive in the Heavenly Court. I'd suggest the so-called "freedom" to have an abortion and all the real medical freedoms are actually mutually exclusive in the Heavenly Court. Deep down, I think we all know that decades of shamelessly maiming and sometimes killing children with vaccinations is a reason why "the chickens came home to roost" (in the style of middah kineged middah, "measure for measure") such that gene therapy injections were mandated in so many workplaces. And obviously we must not give up on that front. But the point of this booklet is to motivate people in the realm of anti-abortion efforts, to strongly motivate people with the incentive for the greater degrees of freedom I believe it will rapidly yield.

We've already tried everything else*:

The efforts to save our rights to defense from dictatorship, foreign powers, and thugs have almost failed.

Gun rights are a conspicuous and increasingly rare sign of G-d's favor these days as most nations have banned all or most guns for most people. The USA is approximately the last armed place on earth.

While Ukraine has been handing out many thousands of fully automatic rifles to subjects, our nation is making banning semi-automatic rifles one of its highest priorities. Maybe that is their idea of preparing for the possibility of WWIII?

The historian Unwin found a remarkable link between rampant decay of sexual boundaries and absolute collapse and destruction of that civilization. Very many examples were cited...a convincing case can be made that this is a cause-and-effect relationship.

WIDESPREAD GUN OWNERSHIP, DECENTRALIZATION OF THE POWER TO USE LETHAL FORCE, achieves the Torah objective for the weak to be protected from the hands of the strong. Gun rights are a conspicuous and increasingly rare sign of G-d's favor these days as most nations have banned all or most guns for most people. It is not an exaggeration to say the USA is approximately the last armed place on earth.

Now at a time when a Third World War, G-d forbid, is looming with Russia and China, there is a massive race at breakneck speed to disarm Americans. And while Ukraine has been handing out many thousands of fully automatic rifles to subjects, our nation is making banning semi-automatic rifles one of its highest priorities. Maybe that is their idea of preparing for the possibility of World War III? Those of us who have been watching that push for some time are aware that this isn't because the architects of that gun control policy are naive. They're acting with malice. So it would be easy to wonder about the question, "Where did we go wrong?"

We tried activism efforts. We tried convincing others that so-called "gun control" is pure evil. Many activism efforts have been made. Membership organizations have been supported with dues. Very frequent legal challenges have been launched. So maybe if we all want our gun rights—which we all do—we've been pushing on the wrong thing.

Yes, a gun culture and Bill of Rights culture is a side benefit of Divine favor and achieves the Torah objective that the weak should be protected from the hands of the strong, that the people ("the civil power" to which the Oregon Constitution says the military power should be subject in its famous gun rights section) should be able to stop a thug, mass shooter, or worse. Sadly, "power to the people" is a slogan which has been used by those pushing for gun bans after at least one mass shooting.

But remember: If we save the babies, we'll save the guns.

I learned from an organization that was made to promote the Seven Noahide Laws for all mankind that a historian named Unwin found that there was an extremely remarkable statistical correlation between rampant decay of sexual law and order within a civilization and the absolute collapse and destruction of that civilization. Very many examples were cited in Unwin's work. Apparently, a convincing case can be made just by the numbers that this was and is a cause-and-effect relationship.

Miscellaneous*:

Smaller points before some final thoughts on abortion and gun control.

If they do enough actual attacks on American soil and have the attackers claim they did it because they are anti-abortion activists, then FBI will have a seemingly legitimate reason to say that people who oppose abortion are likely to do violent things in the furtherance of that cause.

Now that we have found that keeping G-d's law is the answer to ending the dictatorship and now that we see abortion is one of the greatest sins standing in the way, a pushback from the forces of darkness seems likely. I would say a protracted series of false flag attacks blamed on anti-abortion activists/groups is likely in the near future. But if repentance is fast enough, I would guess our nation won't be deserving of that!

Libertarians are only partially upholding the Prohibition of Murder.

Future attacks likely. Attacks blamed on anti-abortion activists, G-d forbid, seem likely in the near future. As exemplified in the mass shootings, the FBI (along with local law enforcement) is considered by other parts of the intelligence community to be merely the unwitting clean-up crew after their operations for strategic domestic deception are carried out on American soil. (See my letter on power grid attacks and mass shootings which is a companion to this report.) I'd say their belief (e.g. belief of some within the CIA) is that if they do enough actual attacks on American soil and have the attackers claim they did it because they are anti-abortion activists, then FBI will have a seemingly legitimate reason to say that people who oppose abortion are likely to do violent things in the furtherance of that cause. Of course, the legitimate anti-abortion activists would not do such a thing and would know that violent assets, 'agents provocateur,' were planted among them to make their good goals look bad.

Meanwhile, it is likely that FBI is prohibited from considering that some folks acting in bad faith in the intelligence community set up/organized the attacks so that FBI would then become the enforcement wing of their cruel social engineering project. Simple as that. So now that we have found that keeping G-d's law is the answer to ending the dictatorship and now that we see abortion is one of the greatest sins standing in the way, a pushback from the forces of darkness seems likely. I would say a protracted series of false flag attacks blamed on anti-abortion activists/groups is likely in the near future. But if repentance is fast enough, I would guess our nation won't be deserving of that!

No, we really can't be libertarians. There was a time (when I first became a conspiracy theorist, before I became religious) I assumed or believed libertarianism would be the right way to go. Libertarianism would, on the topic of abortion, secularly argue that in order to have separation of religion and state we in America must keep the government entirely out of so-called "health care" issues.

Libertarianism would probably say the government should be very small (I agree) and only get involved if the life, liberty, and property of others are being trampled. So they do believe in preventing and prosecuting murder. However, it appears they don't believe in preventing or prosecuting murder of the most vulnerable, most helpless individuals: babies. So libertarians say they are separating religion and state while they allow abortion, G-d forbid, but they are at the same time partially upholding the Divine commandment not to murder another human being. So if they are upholding it for some people, why not for the most vulnerable and the most innocent?

Why is it not allowed (according to libertarians) to murder a person most unsavory and unwholesome in his actions like a gang leader but it is allowed in their thinking to murder an innocent child?

Quarantine motels were established in Australia and New Zealand. The CDC proposed quarantine "camps" in the USA on their site. It was made legal for grocery stores to ban unvaccinated people in a Canadian province and in part of Germany.

We've considered the efforts of G-d's enemies to engineer sin into the fabric of the dictatorship as an insurance policy against any possible future freedom so that the population is always (in their plan) deserving in G-d's eyes of more dictatorship if it continues to sin.

Convincing others is what's most needed today.

Why is it not allowed (according to libertarians) to murder a person most unsavory and unwholesome in his actions like a gang leader but it is allowed in their thinking to murder an innocent child? The libertarian worldview would believe in prosecuting the one crime but not the other.

Note: I don't doubt that libertarians would be concerned about the hypocrisy of the left which has for years used "my body, my choice" as a slogan and recently made quarantine motels (likely soon to be quarantine camps, G-d forbid) in Australia and New Zealand. The CDC proposed quarantine "camps" in the USA on their site. It was made legal for grocery stores to ban unvaccinated people in a Canadian province and in part of Germany. Drugging unvaccinated people was recommended. Enormous numbers of people were fired from their jobs. Large numbers were kicked out of the military. This was all after years of saying "my body, my choice" was their slogan. I don't doubt this contradiction was lost on libertarians.

Hard topics considered. In this report, we've considered many factors which are hard to consider, even the possibility that abortion made our society deserving in G-d's eyes of having mass shootings as we know them today (organized by one group as a form of choreographed terrorism originally intended to cause gun control). We've considered the efforts of G-d's enemies to engineer sin into the fabric of the dictatorship as an insurance policy against any possible future freedom so that the population is always (in their plan) deserving in G-d's eyes of more dictatorship if it continues to sin. We've considered that abortion is being promoted to prevent more souls from being born into this world, thereby delaying the inevitable Final Redemption (this is another form of them trying hard to cling tightly to the last vestiges of their power over us). And we've even considered the meaning of words from the Jewish Bible and words from the oppressors themselves. Maybe we should think of the organization name Lift Every Voice as an encouragement to pray for success in convincing our nation to end abortion (with the vanishingly rare but possible exception of saving the mother's life). But prayer alone is not the main thing needed today. Convincing others is what's most needed.

Speculation was necessary. This report includes speculation. I'm trying to guess how G-d weighs the deeds of mankind. Nobody should think a new religion is being created or that I'm promoting ending abortion as the only thing we have to do. We have to follow all of G-d's laws in the Instruction Manual for Life, the Torah. Jews are commanded to keep the whole Torah and non-Jews like myself are commanded to keep the Noahide Laws.

Emotions*:

Though the facts prove we're right, emotions are probably how we are going to win.

We are living in a time when the CIA has been running the legacy media outlets for decades (T.V., audio, print, etc.) and has perfected the art of strategic domestic deception. They know that reason doesn't work on some people (and that reason is the enemy of their message) so they have woven the fabric of their lies with the yarn of emotion.

It's is if wolves are salivating and licking their mouths while repeatedly organizing tragic calf deaths due to 'horn violence' in horn-free zones so the cattle will lobby vehemently for universal de-horning of the entire herd.

Emunah (Faith) in Action series by Rabbi Yitzchok Dovid Smith (of RabbiSmith.org) teaches tranquility of the soul at all times and through all challenges.

IT'S NOT ENOUGH TO KNOW THE TRUTH AND BE ABLE TO PRESENT IT to others with detailed slide shows and good information. We are living in a time when the CIA has been running the legacy media outlets for decades (T.V., audio, print, etc.) and has perfected the art of strategic domestic deception. [26a] They know that reason doesn't work on some people (and that reason is the enemy of their message) so they have woven the fabric of their lies with the yarn of emotion. They've worked tirelessly to organize the deaths of many schoolchildren in gun-free zones so that those presently, understandably immune to reason will call for their own disarmament, making concentration camps all the easier to pull off (in theory). It's is if wolves are salivating and licking their mouths while repeatedly organizing tragic calf deaths due to 'horn violence' in horn-free zones so the cattle will lobby vehemently for universal de-horning of the entire herd. So what is the answer?

If some are possibly too emotional and angry to look even at the concise, one-page Genocide Chart (2002) by JPFO, is the solution for reaching them really found in doing some more math on a chalkboard about gun control being obviously the deadliest policy in history, bar none? The reality is that emotion is the language with which they were programmed by the CIA through the legacy media. Emotion is the language with which they can be brought out of the false belief. So the answer is we need to show them we are much happier than the liars and happier than those repeating the lies and happier than those who know better but chose to go back to sleep, anyway. We have to show that we are internally peaceful and happy (despite knowing the very ugly truth) because we trust in G-d.

If non-Jewish readers don't yet have an established relationship with an Orthodox rabbi (and even if they do), it could be very beneficial to learn remotely through the Zecharia 8:23 program from Rabbi Yitzchok Dovid Smith (of RabbiSmith.org); his Emunah (Faith) in Action series is especially relevant to this challenging topic because of his relentless focus on teaching students to have, based on the knowledge that G-d ceaselessly taking care of us, tranquility of the soul at all times and through all challenges. In the last few years, Rabbi Smith's name has become synonymous with health freedom and he is not only acutely aware of the rising dictatorship but teaches that we simply cannot be effective at stopping it if ruled by fear, worry, etc.

On a similar note, my upcoming short music video album, especially the final song, a Western starring our family dog Bentley the Baby Dog™, should (with G-d's help) reach people with overwhelming humor, joy, and gratefulness and cut right through the emotional knots holding back those who are presently believing the legacy media. The main focus of that project is teaching people to love guarding the tongue G-d's way and a side benefit is that Bentley the Baby Dog™ is also a mascot for having as many babies as possible.

Chase the feeling from overturning of Roe v. Wade:

Harness positive motivation.

I think we got a hint from the Creator on the day we all heard that news: anti-abortion activism is almost certainly a gold mine in terms of the degrees of freedom it can yield and is one of the key areas where we should focus our repentance efforts. If a project is not succeeding to its fullest, the ones doing the project should check to see what obstacles might be standing in the way of success. In the world of gun rights activism, I submit to the reader that the main obstacle is, strangely, the prevalence of and toleration of abortion.

It must be a great merit in G-d's eyes that Roe v. Wade was overturned.

THOSE OF US WHO ALREADY UNDERSTAND NEED TO BE MOTIVATED, TOO, and emotions can be harnessed for that purpose. For those who are already sincerely religious and, like me, ultra conservative, it seems that good new items on a national level have been few and far between recently. So when I heard that Roe v. Wade had been overturned, I thought, "What's the catch? Is there some bad news lurking on the other side of this one?" And when I learned there was no catch, I had a very good feeling of relief that our nation is going to become righteous and will no longer be deserving of dictatorship, will no longer be deserving of having about half of the country labeled as the mythical "Y'all-Qaeda" by a variety of alphabet agencies and the government-approved legacy media which they operate from behind the scenes.

I consider the overturning of Roe v. Wade to be essentially a free gift from G-d because I felt that anti-abortion activists haven't been great in number in recent years (I could be mistaken). That said, I believe it was the answer to a lot of American prayers.

So for those who remember the feeling I'm talking about, the good feeling of relief from the overturning of Roe v. Wade, we can't slacken our hands. I think we got a hint from the Creator on the day we all heard that news: anti-abortion activism is almost certainly a gold mine in terms of the degrees of freedom it can yield and is one of the key areas where we should focus our repentance efforts. If a project is not succeeding to its fullest, the ones doing the project should check to see what obstacles might be standing in the way of success. In the world of gun rights activism, I submit to the reader that the main obstacle is, strangely, the prevalence of and toleration of abortion.

More so than people remember where they were and the bad feeling when they found out President Kennedy was assassinated, they should remember where they were and the good feeling when they found out Roe v. Wade was overturned. It must be a tremendous merit in G-d's eyes for our country that this happened and we have to push forward and not think the story is over. The state I live in, Oregon, is currently expecting a very large amount of influx of people from other states seeking abortion (abortion tourism). A recently opening clinic here, the Lilith Clinic, is literally named after a demon (in the interest of men and boys guarding their eyes, please do not search for that demon name on a search engine that displays Wikipedia results in the sidebar or on Wikipedia itself because a very immodest painting has shown up there). See [27] for a little more.

For motivation, we should remember the good feeling of learning Roe v. Wade was overturned and let that propel us to further action: we have to teach everyone about the One True G-d → abortion won't be tolerated.

See? More bad news above didn't help so much. For motivation, we should remember the good feeling of learning Roe v. Wade was overturned and let that propel us to further action, meaning we have to teach everyone about the One True G-d because then our society will no longer tolerate abortion.

The one breach in their armor:

The dictatorship will evaporate immediately when mankind turns to G-d. Nothing else will work.

Repentance with a focus on anti-abortion activism is potentially the greatest weak point in the oppressors' existing stranglehold on the USA and other nations.

Knowing very well that G-d is in control at all times and in all places, their main goal is to make us sin.

Repentance on our part is their only real weakness, their 'soft underbelly' in a manner of speaking, and certainly the only way to defeat them permanently.

People generally believe that once gun rights are lost in an area or a nation or a region they cannot be won back.

I SEE ANTI-ABORTION EFFORTS, IF DONE FOR THE SAKE OF RETURNING TO THE REAL G-D, the Jewish one, as potentially the greatest weak point in the oppressors' existing stranglehold on the USA and other nations. Knowing very well that G-d is in control at all times and in all places, their main goal is to make us sin. They engineer sin into the structure of each dictatorship because they believe this is an insurance policy against anyone—and certainly not the entire nation—ever getting free. So in this way they believe their dictatorship will always remain in power. They have gone about incorporating a variety of sins and vices into the fabric of America because they want us to be indefinitely deserving in G-d's eyes of more dictatorship. This means that repentance on our part is their only real weakness, their 'soft underbelly' in a manner of speaking, and certainly the only way to defeat them permanently. This is known very well to anyone who read my book manuscript. But the point of this short booklet is just to show that abortion may well be one of the very most heinous sins—crimes against man and against G-d—from which our society has not repented completely; and efforts in this area may yield some of the most freedom, achieving what was said to be "impossible": winning back gun rights Americans have lost in so many regions. Yes, people generally believe that once gun rights are lost in an area or a nation or a region they cannot be won back. I would suggest that is not due to a deficiency of activism efforts but due to pushing on the wrong thing. We could try redoubling our efforts to promote keeping babies alive and see just how much more freedom it yields and see just by how many miles of ground the gun rights groups actually catch up. That would probably be the proof as to whether this concept is true or not. Many nations have entirely lost their gun rights and have not seen them return. An honest assessment shows that those nations have long been full of sexual immorality, especially abortion. There is no reason those nations (and ours) cannot regain gun rights. Repentance will be the engine of that improvement because it's abundantly clear that no amount of secular gun rights activism has done it.

There is no reason those nations (and ours) cannot regain gun rights. Repentance will be the engine of that improvement because it's abundantly clear that no amount of secular gun rights activism has done it.

Every bullet has an address. Every gun control ballot measure has a zip code or a region or a local area it is associated with. The dictatorship is from G-d's hand and entirely in His control, including all fine details. If it seems like we've been "pushing on the wrong thing," as I characterized it at the beginning of the booklet, maybe we have been.

I acknowledge that there is a rising good trend for permit-less concealed carry in more than half the states in the USA and this may be about the only exception to the rule that gun rights are vanishing. But let's face it: law enforcement following orders of rogues, National Guard following orders of rogues, active-duty military following orders of rogues, UN "peacekeeping" forces, Chinese troops, Russian troops, and any others would laugh at the idea that American men with handguns would stop them. Anti-Holocaust rifles (the more capable cousins of the little AR-15) are a small but better start at making a real defense. Militia groups are generally made up of veterans and retired law enforcement with other volunteers and frequently some intruding, planted federal spies/informants.

G-d isn't cruel and He doesn't make mistakes. It would be cruel and untrue to say that the car accidents of the world and the other tragedies happen at random and it would be cruel and untrue to say that there is only one world when there is both this world and the World to Come. Every leaf falling from a tree is accounted for. Every bullet has an address. Every gun control ballot measure has a zip code or a region or a local area it is associated with. The dictatorship is from G-d's hand and entirely in His control, including all fine details. If it seems like we've been "pushing on the wrong thing," as I characterized it at the beginning of the booklet, maybe we have been.

Our gun rights—the last rights we have in America—may very well be dependent in large part on opposing abortion and reaching out to others to do the same. Thank you for reading. Now go teach people to believe in G-d!

Unity is the key*:

Without the right approach, the truth probably won't be heard by those who need it most.

Don't fall for the psychological warfare tactic made to prevent us from talking with them and to prevent them from talking with us.

UNITY IS A WORD THAT FREQUENTLY TURNS THE STOMACHS of the right because it is usually heard coming from someone promoting communism. All this discussion may seem, at first glance, to point to a conclusion that people on the left are stupid. This kind of thinking is being used as a divide-and-conquer tactic by psychological warfare teams for preventing us from talking with them and to prevent them from talking with us. If everyone stays in their own camps,

If we keep thinking every liberal voter is marching around yelling, "Don't say it could never happen here" (and applying this slogan to a push for abortion "rights") and that they are unreachable, then we've given up before trying and those pushing psychological warfare tactics have won by default...this report is written partly to expose the twisted thinking the dictators want liberals to adopt: that killing babies is the only "right" worth fighting for in our whole country and literally every other right (e.g. the entire Bill of Rights) should be fought against.

They are entirely reachable even though it has been common for them to not let us finish sentences. We have to show how happy we are to be serving G-d. They'll see that not one government-approved media outlet is so happy and free.

then G-d's Instruction Manual for Life doesn't reach those who aren't familiar with it at all. It's not much different from the efforts by intelligence community strategists to get the Jews to believe that the Goyim Defense League and those like them aren't populated by a high percentage of government agents and that the remaining membership isn't just confused on a key point (or their twin efforts on the other side: to get non-Jews to believe that the Jews are plotting in a Protocols of the Elders of Zion fashion, i.e. the efforts at misdirection to pin the blame for the New World Order on the Jews). These sinister endeavors are intended to stoke fear on both sides to prevent the Jews from influencing the rest of the world with G-d's truth because that will be game over for the dictators.

So I see the very same kind of obvious psychological warfare tactics being used to keep the right from talking with the left. I will suggest that it's a slanderous thing to say liberals fully believe the ideology encapsulated in the newest abortion slogan "don't say it could never happen here" and that that anti-Holocaust slogan should be used for promoting abortion. So this report is written partly to expose the twisted thinking the dictators want liberals to adopt: that killing babies is the only "right" worth fighting for in our whole country and literally every other right (e.g. the entire Bill of Rights) should be fought against. If we keep thinking every liberal voter is marching around yelling, "Don't say it could never happen here" (and applying this slogan to a push for abortion "rights") and that they are unreachable, then we've given up before trying and those pushing psychological warfare tactics have won by default. I would suggest we might even flip the new slogan on its head and put a positive spin on it: "Don't say [the righteous practice of banning abortion] could never happen here [and benefit our nation greatly]. Don't say [in your hearts] that we will never succeed in banning abortion just because certain U.S. areas are generally very liberal. With G-d's help, we will overcome the psychological warfare that has divided Americans to such a great degree and we will successfully reach everyone with G-d's hopeful message." The ones who are just repeating lies they were told are entirely reachable even though it has been common for them to not let us finish sentences. We just have to show how happy we are to be serving G-d and they will see plainly that not one government-approved media outlet is so happy and free.

You might hate the idea, but find something to agree on.

The Weston A. Price Foundation recommended something useful recently that pertains to the concept of unity. They said that some of their membership is religious and believes in mankind subduing/settling/ruling over the earth and that the plants and animals are for the service of mankind. Some of their members believe in the New Age movement but do believe in taking good care of the plants and animals. So WAPF recommended finding things to agree on (e.g. both would agree that taking excellent care of grass-fed animals is the right thing to do). We need to use a similar approach here. There may be many ways to do that. If we acknowledge that many on the left believe in "karma," we may actually have a starting point. You could say, "Well, I don't believe in karma. I believe in yesh din v'yesh dayan ('there is justice and there is a Judge') and middah kineged middah ('measure for measure') but I know you believe in karma. So in your belief, don't you think it would be 'bad karma' for our world to be killing 73 million babies per year and expect for this to not lead to another Holocaust with at least a commensurate level of mass murder? To your thinking, does this fit in with 'What goes around comes around?' or 'You reap what you sow'?"

Both groups would agree that taking excellent care of grass-fed animals is the right thing to do. We need to use a similar approach here.

You could say, "Well, I don't believe in karma. I believe in yesh din v'yesh dayan ('there is justice and there is a Judge') and middah kineged middah ('measure for measure')...so would it be 'bad karma' to kill 73 million babies per year and expect for this to not lead to another Holocaust?" Find things to agree on. Better not to call this "finding common ground" since we believe in private property...

So find things you can agree on. But probably better not to call this "finding common ground" because we believe in private property and G-d's economic system of "capitalism with a conscience," the economic system prescribed by the Torah...

If you liked this report, maybe you should recommend it to people who need it. The Uncle Sam-style "I WANT YOU..." poster is a great way to get them interested and the music video album should be even better for that when, G-d willing, it comes out. You can also reach out if you believe you have something to add or improve. Maybe others will see lots and lots of middah kineged middah clues in wording or news items. I look forward to the day when I can say "Welcome to Ory-gun."

Thank you for reading!

MODESTY KEY for REFERENCE-CHECKERS

If there is no mark in bold font on a reference, it may be assumed that it is probably still safe for a religious man to view in Brave Browser. Don't use anything less. I recommend using Brave Browser as default (bookmarks + settings are easily imported from others)—it's even able to block advertisements in the sidebar of the YouTube, which have been nearly pornographic. I've heard that TAG and NetSpark are used by Orthodox Jews as blocking software and plan on trying one.

[27] Rabbi Yitzchok Dovid Smith has really shown us the way when it comes to responding to hearing allegations of Satanism (e.g. Satanic temple abortion rituals, New Mexico's use of one of these groups as a listed service in a taxpayer funded abortion hotline [https://www.lifenews.com/2023/07/25/new-mexico-governors-hotline-caught-referring-women-to-satantic-temple-for-abortions/]) to explain that we should not be afraid of it and think there are any powers independent of the Creator/that any angels are capable of rebelling against the Creator (a serious error made by Christianity). My "FAQs from Christians" handout (free at the Fliers page of my site) shows very clearly we should not think the existence of Satanic abortion rituals means Christianity is right because that is just a way of funneling well-meaning people into the arms of controlled opposition (e.g. this false conclusion: "If Satanism is bad and real and pervasive, that must automatically mean Christianity is true"). It would otherwise be easy for people to think that Noahides like myself are ignorant of that sort of thing. I'm aware that New Mexico has recently had an increase in abortion tourism and that New Mexico's gun rights are very greatly under attack/arguably almost gone. [https://needtoknow.news/2023/09/new-mexico-governor-declares-health-emergency-to-enact-temporary-30-day-gun-ban/]
We should consider these trends to be a wake-up call from G-d to turn us away from sin. The blame is on us and so is the answer. We should not turn to blaming leaders whose intentions we don't always know for certain. After all, they can't be our leaders except by Divine decree. So we must stop pointing the finger at them and point it squarely at ourselves. That's called taking responsibility. If our nation changes its actions for the better, the decree will change for the better. The freest states today may have bravado that guns will never be banned there. In my experience, they are in serious trouble because they are not far behind those states presently most flooded with communism. Without following G-d's commandments, those freer states will end up the same.
