

Elizabeth Greene Aids Her Former Community in Liberia

With the growing challenges that faced Liberia this year, and general difficulty accessing cash from the bank during the Christmas season, Elizabeth S. Greene saw it necessary to identify and assist needy children in her former community. Many of the parents who work for the government never received their salary payments, so the assorted goods distributed by Elizabeth's team were very helpful to the children and their parents.

Christmas season is meant to be shared with everyone that you come across. This day is set aside to celebrate Christ's birthday, along with many other Christians around the world, and this couldn't have happened for the Smythe Road community without Elizabeth expressing her love for the needy children in her former community.

This project identified over 100 children between the ages of 3 and 14 from the Smythe Road community where Elizabeth used to live.

The team purchased assorted goods, including food and clothing, from the local market on December 23.

On December 24, at the Smythe Road Church of Christ, parents and children from Elizabeth's former community received their Christmas gifts. Community leaders and three media outlets were also invited. The overview of the project was introduced by Mr. Edwin Gadara Myers, the team lead of Elizabeth's project and a community leader. A few of the kids and parents also made remarks.

Parents and children were very happy and expressed their gratitude to Elizabeth and all those who contributed toward the Christmas gifts. The program was also live on social media and featured in two daily newspapers.
