

New EMerge Schedule Begins This Month

A reminder: beginning today, the Presbytery is beginning some new communication practices and schedules, aimed at getting you the information and support you need, and within budget.

EMerge will move to an every-other-Friday distribution schedule. It will remain the information-packed newsletter you have grown to expect and on which many of you rely for information from across the Presbytery and the wider church.

On non-EMerge Fridays, beginning next week (April 12), the Presbytery will distribute “PTCA Link” to its teaching elders, ruling elders, committee members, and clerks of session. PTCA Link will focus specifically on upcoming deadlines and other important information for the business of the church. If you don’t fall into one of those categories, above, or if you don’t receive it next Friday, e-mail office administrator Jennifer Schultz (office@ptcaweb.org) to be added to the list.

We will also be more active in telling the news of the Presbytery, its congregations, and its leaders, on Facebook and Twitter. If you’re not a friend of the Presbytery on Facebook, or following it on Twitter, consider doing so.

Later this year, we’ll begin work on our website, so that it too can become a better source of both information and inspiration about the Presbytery, its congregations, and its leaders. And we will make significant changes to our database, so that we can better manage essential member information.

The Presbytery of the Twin Cities Area: supporting its congregations, equipping its leaders.
