

Antonia Rolle Bio

Antonia Rolle serves as the President and CEO of Project 180, bringing more than 20 years of experience in human services, nonprofit leadership, and community development. She is committed to advancing Project 180's mission of reducing recidivism and supporting successful reentry by combining professional expertise with lived experience.

Originally from Iowa, Antonia lived in both Houston and Philadelphia as a young adult, where she faced personal struggles that included her own involvement with the criminal justice system and addiction while in college.

During that time, she also lost her best friend and college roommate to addiction — an experience that deepened her resolve to help others find hope and healing. By graduation, she was mentoring youth on community supervision and exiting detention, beginning a lifelong commitment to supporting people in recovery and reentry.

Before joining Project 180, Antonia served as Director of Mission Services at Goodwill Manasota, where she led teams both locally and at Goodwill West Palm Beach & Treasure Coast following a merger. She successfully guided staff and programs through the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic and multiple hurricanes, ensuring vital services remained available. Her career also includes leadership roles in workforce development, financial services, and community initiatives.

As CEO, Antonia brings vision, compassion, and accountability to Project 180 and the community it serves. She believes in the power of second chances and is dedicated to ensuring that returning citizens have the resources, dignity, and opportunities they need to thrive.
