

Laurene Beth Bowers is the Conference Associate Minister for Congregational Life and Vitality at the Penn Central Conference. She served as pastor for 27 years in New England.

She holds five masters degrees and one doctorate and completed all the coursework for a second doctorate. Rev. Bowers is the author of Becoming a Multicultural Church (Pilgrim Press, 2006), Designing Contemporary Congregations: Strategies to attract those under 50 (Pilgrim Press, 2008) Invitational Ministry (Chalice Press, 2013), The God Beyond Organized Religion (Wipf and Stock, 2016) and Transformative Worship: Changing Lives through Religious Experience (Wipf and Stock, 2017). She is married to Kent Rhodehamel, pastor of Locust Grove and they have three adult children.