

Attorney Scott Rowland Joins Gravel & Shea Real Estate Team

Burlington, Vermont (September 4, 2018):

This month, Gravel & Shea welcomed Scott Rowland to the firm. As an Associate Attorney on the real estate team, Scott will bring a background in commercial real estate, renewable energy development and environmental law to serving clients on a range of real estate, administrative law and corporate matters.

“I am very pleased to join Gravel & Shea and am looking forward to this opportunity to assist clients in the communities where I grew up,” said Scott.

Scott is a graduate of Vermont Law School, where he was a Staff Editor of the Vermont Journal of Environmental Law and a clinician in the Vermont Law School Energy Clinic. Prior to attending law school, Scott worked as a project analyst with a prominent renewable energy developer in Boston. In that role Scott worked closely with investors, contractors, utilities and state governments to develop and maintain successful projects.

“We are so excited to have Scott join our real estate group at Gravel & Shea,” said Partner Michelle Farkas. “Scott has deep connections to Vermont — his home state and where he chose to attend both college and law school — and his many years of solar development experience will provide valuable support to our renewable energy clients. We are delighted Scott chose to remain in Vermont and begin his practice here with Gravel & Shea.”