Dear Scottsdale Prep Families,

With Spring Break in our sights, our entire community is engaged in a busy week of activities. Just today, we were honored to host the President of the University of Arizona, Dr. Robert Robbins, who spoke with our students about his vision for the university. Our students enjoyed learning more about the future of the university, including the new features of their Honors College. Afterward, he spoke of his family's own education in the liberal arts and affirmed the wonderful foundation that our students experience here at Scottsdale Prep.

The Class of 2019 departs tomorrow morning for their Senior Trip to Washington D.C., where they will visit many of our nation's great museums and government buildings. This trip is such a highlight for our senior students, and we look forward to hearing great stories from their time in D.C. Please check our Facebook page for updates on the trip this weekend and early next week.

Finally, we wish our entire Spartan community a much-deserved, relaxing Spring Break. This week is an official "R&R" time, so please encourage all students to take a break from their studies and enjoy the springtime!

Best wishes, and Go Spartans!
