Distance Learning Guidance for Students with Disabilities

Kristin Wright
Director,
Special Education Division

TONY THURMOND
State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

Local Educational Agencies (LEAs) that physically close schools and move to distance learning should focus on how to also continue serving students with disabilities.

- LEAs should design distance learning with accessibility in mind
- Teachers and specialist should work together to adapt instruction to meet the unique learning needs of students with disabilities as outlined in the Individualized Education Programs (IEP)

TONY THURMOND
State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

Considerations for Distance Learning

- Individualized Instruction in Distance Learning Settings
 - As LEAs consider distance learning options, they should assess the extent to which a student with a disability will be able to attain educational benefit under each option
 - LEAs may need to update Individual Education Programs if additional/compensatory services to some students with disabilities are warranted when onsite instruction and regular school operations resume

TONY THURMOND
State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

Considerations for Distance Learning (Cont.)

- Related Services
 - To the greatest extent possible, LEAs should continue providing related services consistent with the student's IEP. This may involve providing services on one or more school sites, consistent with social distancing guidelines and accounting for the health needs of students and staff or virtually

TONY THURMOND
State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

- Assistive Technology
 - LEAs should also be flexible in providing access to school-purchased assistive technology devices when necessary, consistent with law, to ensure children have access to devices they typically use at school

TONY THURMOND
State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

- Nonpublic Schools and Agencies (NPS/A)
 - CDE encourages continued payment to NPS/As. LEAs should work with NPS/As to take advantage of services that can be offered by NPS/As that elect to continue to provide services during school closures
 - LEAs and NPS/As should work collaboratively to ensure continuity of services for students currently served by NPS/As, pursuant to the IEP, including exploring options related to distance learning

TONY THURMOND
State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

Requirements Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)

- At this time the federal government has not waived the federal requirements under the IDEA
- LEA's continue to have the obligation to provide a Free Appropriate Public Education
- Federal guidance has been issued explaining how these obligations operate in the context of school closures in response to COVID-19, which can be found at:
<https://www2.ed.gov/policy/speced/guid/idea/memosdcltrs/qa-covid-19-03-12-2020.pdf>.

State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

Requirements Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)

- Newly signed SB 117 requires the State Department of Education to consider the days a school is closed due to COVID–19 as days between a pupil’s regular school session for purposes of the timelines for the development of assessment plans. LEAs are also encouraged to respond as expeditiously as possible to requests from parents or guardians received during the period of time a school is closed due to COVID–19.

CDE Distance Learning Workgroup

CDE will convene a workgroup of practitioners and experts in special education to assess various models for effectively serving students with disabilities in a distance learning environment, including promising practices and specific strategies that LEAs are implementing in California and around the country.

Supervision of Children

- Schools are required, to the extent practicable, to arrange for the supervision of children during ordinary school hours
- Schools that have closed or will close should develop a plan to ensure supervision. When developing this plan, schools should:
 - Determine and address needs of working families
 - Consider how child care centers on LEA campuses will be affected by a physical closure
 - Consider the age of their students when considering supervision options

TONY THURMOND
State Superintendent
of Public Instruction

Supervision of Children (cont.)

- Schools should consider allowing community-based organizations to continue to operate on school campuses during a closure
- Schools should consider allowing their school sites for use as critical pop-up child care
- Schools that remain open but that may be considering physically closing, should follow this guidance as well as consult with the local public health department and state guidance prior to physically closing
