New Today

Action from Governor Newsom

- Governor Newsom will provide an update on the state's response to COVID-19 at 12:00 pm. It will be livestreamed on Twitter and Facebook.

Numbers at a Glance

- As of July 13, California has over 325,916 positive cases and there have been 7,053 deaths.
- The United States has least 3,438,025 cases and at least 137,871 deaths.
 - Over this weekend more than 100,000 new coronavirus cases were identified. Seven states set daily case records. Florida added more cases in a day than any state had previously known to, and on Monday reported more than 12,600 additional cases, its second-highest total recorded for a single day in the pandemic.
- Approximately 5,406,599 tests have been conducted in California.
- CA has 6,322 hospitalizations and 1,806 people in the ICU.
- The rate of positive tests over the last 14 days is 7.5 percent in California.

Misc. News

- The New York Times reports that California, after rising a boom, braces for hard times, noting the unemployment rate which was 3.9 percent in February, the lowest on record, shot up to 16.3 percent by May, compared with 13.3 percent nationwide. The U.C.L.A. Anderson Forecast, which has been prognosticating California's economic trajectory since 1952, expects that the state and national economies won't fully recover until "well past 2022."

(press release)
- Executive Order N-51-20, April 16, gives California workers from large employers in the food sector industry impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic two weeks of paid sick leave, filling a gap left by federal relief that had provided similar paid leave benefits for employers with fewer than 500 workers. Additionally, provides health and safety standards to increase worker and customer protection by permitting workers at food facilities to wash their hands every 30 minutes, or as needed, to increase proper sanitation measures. (press release)
- Executive Order N-52-20, April 16, addresses a variety of issues, including adjusting admissions requirements for the CSU system, providing flexibility for 60 days on background checks for critical infrastructure sectors, and suspending restrictions of selling commercial food at the state's rest areas (The FHWA suspended related federal prohibitions last week) (Governor's Office press release, Caltrans Press Release)
- Executive Order N-53-20, April 17, allows county child welfare agencies and probation departments to perform necessary functions using alternative processes other than face-to-face interactions. This includes allowance for a 60-day waiver to allow for flexibility in the emergency placement of foster youth and ensures that foster youth have access to critical programs and technology by verifying foster care status for foster youth and wards of the juvenile court whose cases are pending. (press release)
- Executive Order N-54-20, April 23, allows certain requirements under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) to be satisfied through electronic means. The executive order will temporarily allow retailers, particularly grocery stores, to provide bags to consumers without charge, and to pause redemption of beverage containers in-store to mitigate the spread of COVID-19. The executive order also temporarily suspends the requirement for recycling centers to hold a minimum number of hours of operation and directs CalRecycle to develop and issue operating guidelines. Other issues addressed include granting a 60-day extension for customers on several DMV deadlines, including for recently expired drivers' licenses and identification cards, to reflect public compliance with the COVID-19 stay at home order. It also suspends late fees from being applied to expired vehicle registrations. (press release)

- Executive Order N-55-20, April 23, allows fair hearings to continue for California Children's Services on grievances and appeals to take place by phone or video conference. Additionally, the order will ensure flexibility for DHCS and the Department of Social Services to continue providing mental health care services and programs. The executive order will temporarily suspend requirements for in-person signatures for people to obtain certain prescription drugs covered by Medi-Cal, and will allow a 90-day extension for providers on cost reporting, change of scope of service and administrative hearings. (press release)
- Executive Order N-56-20, April 23, extends the deadlines for local educational agencies to submit Local Control and Accountability Plans (LCAP), which are multi-year planning documents tied to budget projections. (press release)
- Executive Order N-57-20, April 23, exempts garnishment for any individuals receiving federal, state or local government financial assistance in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. This includes recovery rebates under the CARES Act. Funds may still be garnished for child support, family support, spousal support or criminal restitution for victims. (press release)
- Executive Order N-58-20, April 30, allow adults to obtain marriage licenses via videoconferencing rather than in person for the next 60 days. (press release)

 - The Governor encouraged people to continue to wear face coverings, access free testing, physically distance, and wash hands often.
- June 22nd
 - The Governor clarified that the guidelines requiring face coverings are mandated and important to help CA through the first wave.

- 35.6% of all cases in CA have been reported in the last 14 days. 46,735 new cases in the past 14 days. We are also seeing increases in the positivity rate, hospitalizations and amount of people in the ICU. CA is in a position to respond to the continued increase in cases though and they are not a surprise.
- Last week there were 13 counties needing technical assistance. There are now 11 counties that the state is providing technical assistance to.
- Great Plates program has provided over 1 million meals to seniors in need. Over 5,000 jobs have been supported by this program.
- Little details were given about the budget deal with the legislature – said that compromises have been made across the spectrum and further details will be coming out in the coming hours and the coming weeks.

- June 24th
 - The Governor continued to remind people to wear masks and that we are still in the first wave. Industry guidelines do not mean “go,” they just advance the “how,” as counties determine the “when.”
 - New cases have dramatically increased in the last few days, with a record of 7,149 on June 23. The 14-day average positivity rate for tests is now at 5.1% and the 7-day average is at 5.6%. These increases are expected, and CA has the surge capacity to accommodate increases case numbers.
 - $2.5 billion in the state budget is conditioned on counties meeting their self-attested criteria laid out for COVID-19 responses and prevention. We are in a stage now where we have to demand accountability. Compliance will be analyzed on a monthly basis.
 - Concern with prison populations. 456 individuals have tested positive at San Quentin. 355 staff members and 1,785 inmates have tested positive throughout the system. Still have a lot of work to do in this space, including addressing the issues that come with moving people between facilities. Courts

- March 13, the California Supreme Court issued an order suspending in person oral argument sessions. Counsel will appear via video conference, by telephone conference, or by other electronic means.
- On April 6, the Judicial Council met by teleconference—the second time in less than 10 days—and approved additional temporary statewide measures in response to COVID-19. These included actions to protect individuals’ rights relating to temporary restraining orders, visitation, evictions and foreclosures as well as adopting an emergency bail schedule setting bail at $0 for most misdemeanor and low-level felony offenses. The audio recording and post-meeting recap are now available on the California Courts website. Meeting information is here.
 - Here are the 11 temporary emergency Rules of Court.
- April 13, the United States Supreme Court announced this morning that it will hear 10 oral arguments by telephone in May, in 13 cases that had previously been scheduled for argument in March and April but had been postponed. In keeping with public health guidance in response to COVID-19, the Justices and counsel will all participate remotely. The Court anticipates providing a live audio feed of these arguments to news media. Details will be shared as they become available.

- The Legislative Analyst's Office has released a document outlining the Judicial Branch Actions in response to COVID-19.
- Two initiative campaigns that were in the signature gatherings phase when stay-at-home orders were enacted report that Sacramento Court Judge James Arguelles has issued a tentative ruling that would grant one of the campaigns more time to collect signatures, "essentially guaranteeing that both will qualify for the next statewide general election to issue after this November – presumably November 2022." The ruling was in favor of the campaign supported by Californians Against Waste for an initiative that would bar certain polystyrene containers, would impose a tax on producers of single-use plastics and would allocate new tax revenues for recycling and environmental programs. The other campaign was for legalized sports wagering.

Federal Action

- Economic Stimulus Legislation:

- H.R.6201 - Families First Coronavirus Response Act, enacted March 18, 2020
 - The legislation provides many workers with up to two weeks of paid sick leave if they are being tested or treated for coronavirus or have been diagnosed with it. Also, eligible would be those who have been told by a doctor or government official to stay home because of exposure or symptoms. Those payments would be capped at $511 a day, roughly what someone making $133,000 earns annually.
 - Workers with family members affected by coronavirus and those whose children's schools have closed would still receive up to two-thirds of their pay, though that benefit would now be limited to $200 a day.
- H.R.748 - CARES Act, enacted March 27, 2020
 - Negotiations occurred between Senate Republicans and the Trump administration who called for direct payments to workers, while Democrats have pushed for significantly increasing unemployment benefits.
 - Negotiations continued over the weekend of March 21, and the goal was for a vote this Monday, March 23. (WSJ article here).

- One of the outstanding issues for Democrats was the $500 billion “Exchange Stabilization Fund,” which is designed to assist industries that have been hit hard by the coronavirus, including $58 billion for airlines and cargo. The GOP proposal would mostly prevent companies that accept the money from buying back their own stock. McConnell, Schumer, Pelosi, Mnuchin and House Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy met in McConnell’s office on Sunday, but Pelosi left the meeting saying that the House would draft its own bill.
- An agreement was finalized early March 25, on a roughly $2 trillion rescue package, the largest economic stimulus measure in modern history. A summary of key components can be found in this NY Times Article and below.
 - Direct payments of $1,200 to most individuals making up to $75,000, or $2,400 for couples making up to $150,000. Each dependent child increases the amount by an additional $500. The amount decreases for individuals with incomes above $75,000, and payments cut off for those above $99,000. This is true even for those who have no income, as well as those whose income comes entirely from non-taxable means-tested benefit programs, such as Social Security. Some reports estimate this could cost somewhere around $250 billion.
 - Waives the 10% early withdrawal penalty for distributions up to $100,000 for coronavirus-related purposes, retroactive to Jan. 1 on retirement funds.
 - Expanded unemployment benefits that boost the maximum benefit by $600 per week and provides laid-off workers their full pay for four months. Eligibility is extended to independent contractors and the self-employed; including gig economy workers. It also extends UI benefits through Dec. 31, and allows furloughed workers to stay on as employees. Some reports estimate this could cost somewhere around $250 billion.
 - $350 billion in loan guarantees for small businesses to keep making payroll while workers have to stay home. Companies with 500 employees or less that keep paychecks steady could get up to $10 million each in forgivable small business loans.
 - $150 billion for state and local governments, with $8 billion set aside for tribal governments.

- $130 billion for hospitals and the nation's health system, and billions more into providing personal and protective equipment for health care workers, testing supplies, and increased workforce and training.
- All testing and potential vaccines for COVID-19 will be covered at no cost to patients.
- $500 billion in loans for larger industries, including $25 billion for passenger airlines; $4 billion for carriers; $3 billion for aviation contractors and $17 billion for "businesses critical to maintaining national security". Limits stock buy-backs and executive compensation packages.
- Increases the amount the Agriculture Department can spend on its bailout program from $30 billion to $50 billion, according to a press release issued by Sen. John Hoeven (R-N.D.).
- Creation of an oversight board and inspector general to oversee loans to large companies
- Measure prohibiting companies owned by President Trump and his family from receiving federal relief
- $25 million for the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.
- $400 million for election security grants
- Provides permanent liability protection for manufacturers of personal respiratory protective equipment, such as masks and respirators, in the event of a public health emergency, to incentivize production and distribution
- Directs the National Academies to study supply chain shortages of equipment like masks and ventilators
- Allows students to defer loan payments for six months and keep Pell Grants
- Allow federal testing rules to be waived for K-12 students
- The Senate approved the 880-page bill in a unanimous 96-0 vote on March 25.
- After controversy over the possibility of a voice vote, the House of Representatives approved the bill on March 27.
- President Trump signed the bill on March 27.
- Reports suggest that the UI benefits in the deal might incentivize layoffs and discourage employees from seeking new jobs.
- H.R.266 - Paycheck Protection Program and Health Care Enhancement Act, enacted April 24
 - April 21, the Senate passed this compromise bill to provide additional funds for the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) and Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) program, as well as needed funds for hospitals and COVID-19 testing. The measure passed overwhelmingly in the House on April 23 — 388-5.

- $1.8 trillion total. Provides an immediate $321 billion infusion for the Paycheck Protection Program, the small business rescue fund that ran out of money last week. The package also provides another $60 billion in economic disaster loans for small businesses, $75 billion in emergency relief for hospitals and $25 billion to ramp up coronavirus testing.
- The overall compromise includes $484 billion as follows: $321 billion for PPP; $50 billion for EIDL; $10 billion for EIDL Advance grants; $2.1 billion for Small Business Administration (SBA) administrative expenses; $75 billion for hospitals; and $25 billion for testing (research, development and deployment). It also clarifies that agriculture enterprises are eligible for PPP. The bill makes no changes to the Coronavirus Relief Fund for state and local governments, so that will be an ongoing issue for Phase 4.
- Heroes Act
 - A $3 trillion total relief measure has been introduced and may be voted on this Friday, May 15.
 - The coronavirus relief bill will follow up on similar measures Congress has already passed to respond to the crisis, with more funding for state and local governments and coronavirus testing. The measure will also include funding for nutrition assistance and the Postal Service, as well as student loan relief, education, rental and mortgage assistance provision.
 - May 15, Republicans attempted to use a procedural maneuver to force a change to the measure, stripping language that would allow undocumented immigrants to get the $1,200 direct payments as well as to collect the previous round of such payments retroactively, which they had been barred from. Such a change would all but guarantee the legislation's failure.
 - May 15, the House voted 208 to 199 — largely along party lines — to pass the measure. The size of the bill represents the biggest ever proposed and it includes another round of direct cash payment to Americans, extends unemployment benefits to the end of January and adds hazard pay for front-line workers. It also expands virus-testing efforts, contact tracing and treatment.

- McCarthy, Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., and other Republicans insisting any new effort include liability protections for businesses and individuals, a move Democrats oppose.
- Senate Republicans have stated if there is any future aid package, it will not come until after the 25 May Memorial Day recess.
- May 29, Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell said that the next potential relief bill will be the final coronavirus stimulus legislation and people can expect a decision being made on whether to go forward in about a month.
- The US Department of Homeland Security has released a memo on identification of critical infrastructure workers during COVID-19 response. (informational website here; memo here)
- The President invoked the Defense Production Act to ensure the production of ventilators and medical supplies. The administration also announced the suspension of foreclosures and evictions until the end of April.
- President and US Coronavirus Task Force have been holding press conferences each morning.
 - Doctors permitted to cross state lines without licensing issues.
 - Testing and therefore numbers of cases expected to rapidly increase.
- Small Business Administration (SBA) approved an Economic Injury Disaster Loan assistance declaration for California, which makes loans available to small businesses and private, non-profit organizations in designated areas of a state or territory to help alleviate economic injury caused by the Coronavirus.
 - SBA has declared all California counties eligible.
 - SBA announced changes to help borrowers still paying back SBA loans from previous disasters. By making this change, deferments through December 31, 2020, will be automatic. Now, borrowers of home and business disaster loans do not have to contact SBA to request deferment.
- The Treasury Department announced that the deadline to file federal taxes has moved from April 15th to July 15th, 2020.
- The U.S. Department of Education is temporarily waiving interest on all federally held student loans and has directed federal lenders to suspend student loan payments for 60 days.
- CDC order directs the suspension of all entries into the US from Mexico, Canada and other countries without proper documentation. The order will begin at midnight on March 20, 2020.

- The Director of the Federal Housing and Finance Agency has said that affected people can contact their lenders to work out a payment plan without the immediate need to formally document hardship. Homeowners may be able to reduce payments or pause payments on their mortgages for up to 12 months. Homeowners will need to work out a repayment plan for once they recover financially which may extend the term of the loan. Lenders are being told not to report these delinquencies to credit reporting bureaus.
- March 20, FEMA has established a COVID-19 rumor control page on their website to clear up misconceptions about the virus. Visitors to the page will also find fact sheets and archived news releases.

- The US Treasury, IRS and Department of Labor announced a plan to implement Coronavirus-related paid leave for workers and tax credits for small and midsize businesses to swiftly recover the cost of providing Coronavirus-related leave. This covers paid sick leave, complete coverage for paid leave pursuant to the Act, fast reimbursement, and easing compliance requirements. Information from the IRS here.
- President Trump said in a letter to U.S. governors on March 26 that his administration is working to publish new guidelines for state and local governments to use when making decisions about "maintaining, increasing or relaxing social distancing and other mitigation measures" for the coronavirus epidemic.
- On March 26, the Department of Homeland Security has pushed back the enforcement deadline from Oct. 1, 2020 to Oct. 1, 2021 for REAL ID-compliant driver licenses and IDs. \(statement here\)
- The President signed a Presidential Memo directing the Secretary of Health and Human Services to use authority under the Defense Production Act to require the production of ventilators.
- Federal guidelines for social distancing will remain in place until April 30, President Trump said, backing away from his plan to end them by Easter. Two of the top doctors advising President Trump on the coronavirus pandemic warned on Sunday that as many as 200,000 Americans could die during the outbreak, even with much of the country already under stay-at-home orders and practicing social distancing.
- The CDC recommends wearing cloth face coverings in public settings where other social distancing measures are difficult to maintain (e.g., grocery stores and pharmacies) especially in areas of significant community-based transmission.

- The IRS has a new webpage that will allow Americans to register for stimulus payments if they have not filed taxes. More information from the IRS on the stimulus payments here too.
- The US Census Bureau announced it will be asking Congress for a four-month delay in delivering the population data used to reapportion the House of Representatives and political districts across the country. The Census Bureau temporarily suspended 2020 Census field data collection activities in March. Steps are already being taken to reactivate field offices beginning June 1, 2020, in preparation for the resumption of field data collection operations as quickly as possible following June 1. State legislatures would get final figures for drawing new district maps as late as July 31, 2021. Delivery of that data normally begins in February. (press release)
- April 14, President Trump announced the US would halt payments to the W.H.O. while the administration reviews its role in handling the virus.
- The IRS issued its notice 2020-23, an update to Notice 2020-18 regarding additional relief for taxpayers affected by COVID-19, which in addition to postponing dates for certain federal tax returns and federal tax payments, also extends some (but not all) deadlines relating to 1031 exchanges and investments in Qualified Opportunity Zones. Questions remain about the extent of relief available (and there is no conforming California state guidance from the FTB yet), so parties should contact their legal and/or tax advisor for the impact, if any, on particular transactions or circumstances.
- The President released the Opening Up America Again Guidelines, featuring proposed state or regional gating. It is noted that State and local officials may need to tailor the application of these criteria to local circumstances (e. g., metropolitan areas that have suffered severe COVID outbreaks, rural and suburban areas where outbreaks have not occurred or have been mild). Additionally, where appropriate, Governors should work on a regional basis to satisfy these criteria and to progress through the phases outlined.
- FEMA Administrator Pete Gaynor issued a letter to the nation's emergency managers outlining lessons learned from the first 30 days of FEMA leading the "Whole-of-America" response to the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. The letter is available on FEMA's website.
- It has been reported that the $349 billion government program administered by the Small Business Administration meant to keep small businesses afloat ran out of money. The federal government is discussing adding hundreds of billions of dollars, however an agreement has yet to be reached.

- As of April 20, it has been reported that over the weekend of 4/18 a deal was being narrowed in on with $300 billion in additional money for the Paycheck Protection Program, (the original PPP program ran out in less than two weeks), $50 billion for Small Business Disaster loans and $75 billion in emergency funding for hospitals, and possibly $25 billion for testing. There is nothing so far for states and local governments in this new stimulus. (NYT Article)
- President Trump said he will sign an executive order to temporarily suspend immigration to the United States, citing “the attack from the Invisible Enemy” and “the need to protect” American jobs. Such a ban would be unprecedented in U.S. history. (Washington Post article)
- U.S. Small Business announced that agricultural businesses are now eligible for SBA’s Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) and EIDL Advance programs.
 - SBA’s EIDL portal has reopened as a result of funding authorized by Congress through the Paycheck Protection Program and Healthcare Enhancement Act.
- FEMA has added a new function to its Grants Portal website for the COVID-19 event (DR-4482). Potential applicants, such as towns/cities, counties, special districts, UCs, CSUs, Tribal Governments, etc., (except for Private Non-Profits/Tribal Governments applying as their own Recipient) can now go directly to the Grants Portal website, create their own Organization Profiles, and submit a Request for Public Assistance (RPA) without having to first receive an Invitation from Cal OES.
 - Please see the Cal OES webpage: FEMA-4482-DR-CA California COVID-19 Pandemic for more information, application documents, links to the FEMA Grants Portal and other helpful sites, and news about upcoming Virtual Applicant’s Briefings.
- May 8, the US Bureau of Labor Statistics released an Employment Situation Summary showing that total nonfarm payroll employment fell by 20.5 million in April, and the unemployment rate rose to 14.7 percent. The April job losses exceed the 8.7 million in the last recession, when unemployment peaked at 10 percent in October 2009.
- The House of Representatives has approved rule changes that will allow members to vote by proxy and hold hearings remotely during the coronavirus pandemic. It directs the House Administration Committee to conduct a study, certify the new electronic voting plan and test it out. It could be installed in a matter of months to a year or more.

- May 22, President Trump commanded America's governors to immediately reopen churches and other places of worship, threatening to "override" the state leaders if they refused to follow his directive.
- May 29, President Trump said he would make good on his threat to withdraw from the World Health Organization. (Politico Article)
- June 1, the Congressional Budget Office has projected that the pandemic would cost $7.9 trillion over the next decade, or a 3 percent loss in "real" gross domestic product.
- June 4, the United States Department of Labor released a new report showing that last week there were more than 2 million new unemployment claims and an overall number collecting state benefits increased by almost 650,000 to a seasonally adjusted total of 21.5 million. Even as some businesses reopen and workers come off the rolls, others are being newly laid off or belatedly starting to receive benefits.
- June 10, the Federal Reserve stated it would leave interest rates near zero for the foreseeable future as the central bank projected high unemployment for several years and a long slog back from the pandemic-induced recession. In their first economic projections this year, Federal officials indicated that they expect the unemployment rate to end 2020 at 9.3 percent and remain elevated for some time, coming in at 5.5 percent in 2022. - June 18, The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has issued guidance to assist employers reopening non-essential businesses and their employees returning to work during the evolving coronavirus pandemic. The guidance supplements the U.S. Department of Labor and U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' previously developed Guidance on Preparing Workplaces for COVID-19 and the White House's Guidelines for Opening Up America Again.

- President Trump signed an executive order to suspend certain temporary work visas through the end of the year. The order targets H-1B visas, which are designed for certain skilled workers such as those employed in the tech industry, as well as L-1 visas, which are meant for executives who work for large corporations.
- The House Energy and Commerce Committee held a hearing with Dr. Anthony Fauci and other top Trump administration officials on the coronavirus pandemic. Brett Giroir, assistant secretary for health at the Department of Health and Human Services told the committee that he expects the country to be able to conduct 40 million to 50 million tests a month by the fall, and that officials are working to increase the nation's testing capacity, as well as the quality of the tests. Dr. Fauci was upbeat on one front: He told lawmakers he was "cautiously optimistic" that a vaccine would be available by the end of the year, or in early 2021, based on early clinical data.
- The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) are issuing this announcement to raise awareness of the threat to COVID-19-related research. The FBI is investigating the targeting and compromise of U.S. organizations conducting COVID-19-related research by PRC-affiliated cyber actors and non-traditional collectors. These actors have been observed attempting to identify and illicitly obtain valuable intellectual property (IP) and public health data related to vaccines, treatments, and testing from networks and personnel affiliated with COVID-19-related research. The potential theft of this information jeopardizes the delivery of secure, effective, and efficient treatment options. (FBI press release)
- The US Government Accountability Office has reported that the IRS and Treasury made COVID-19 relief payments to more than a million deceased individuals and the government did not consult death records for three batches of payments. The G.A.O. also warned that the $660 billion Paycheck Protection Program was vulnerable to fraud because the Small Business Administration is relying on borrower certifications to determine if the loans are needed and how they are being used. (NY Times article here)
- The Paycheck Protection Program resumed accepting applications July 6, 2020, at 9:00 AM EDT in response to President signing the program's extension legislation. The new deadline to apply for a Paycheck Protection Program loan is August 8, 2020.
- July 6, the Small Business Administration and Treasury released data on hundreds of thousands of borrowers from the $660 billion Paycheck Protection Program. The July 6 data release is the most detailed information about the program made available to date, although it still falls short of the transparency sought in the ongoing suit, which was initially filed May 12 in the U.S. district court in Washington, D.C. Rather than identifying specific loan amounts, the data is bracketed in buckets ranging from $150,000 to $350,000; $350,000 to $1 million; $1 million to $2 million; $2 million to $5 million; and $5 million to $10 million.

- The U.S. has sent a letter officially notifying the United Nations that it is leaving the WHO, starting the formal process first threatened in April. To leave the organization, the U.S. is supposed to give a one-year notice and pay outstanding dues, according to language that the U.S. added to the WHO constitution when it joined the treaty in 1948. As of June 30, the U.S. owed $198 million in unpaid membership dues. (NPR article here)

- The United States has least 3,438,025 cases and at least 137,871 deaths.
 - Over this weekend more than 100,000 new coronavirus cases were identified. Seven states set daily case records. Florida added more cases in a day than any state had previously known to, and on Monday reported more than 12,600 additional cases, its second-highest total recorded for a single day in the pandemic.
- Approximately 5,406,599 tests have been conducted in California.
- CA has 6,322 hospitalizations and 1,806 people in the ICU.
- The rate of positive tests over the last 14 days is 7.5 percent in California.
- CA has 25 state and county labs currently testing.

Misc. News

- Seven members of Congress have been diagnosed with COVID-19. Senator Rand Paul was the first US Senator diagnosed with COVID-19. This presents legislative concerns, with 5 Republican Senators now self-quarantined and unable to vote.
- Tesla said on Thursday that it would shut down production at its San Francisco Bay Area factory, which has remained open for several days in apparent defiance of a local county order. (NYT article here).
- There have been many articles written on the economic effect of COVID-19 on the gig-economy.

- The New York Times has reported that “In recent weeks, some gig-economy companies have responded by offering basic sick leave provisions and cleaning products like hand sanitizer for drivers. Uber, Lyft, Instacart and DoorDash said that they would pay workers for 14 days of work if they have a coronavirus diagnosis and need to stay home. Uber and Lyft also said they would provide cleaning products.” (NYT article here)
- Shoppers for Instacart, a tech company that delivers groceries and other household items ordered through an app, plan a nationwide strike on Monday, March 30, maintaining that the company has not provided them with supplies to protect them from being infected. Workers have asked for hazard pay — an extra $5 per order — and for the default of the in-app tip to be set to at least 10 percent of the order total. They are also seeking an expansion of pay for workers affected by Covid-19, the illness caused by the coronavirus. (NYT article here)

- April 29, a coalition of workers from Amazon, Walmart, FedEx, Target, Instacart, and Whole Foods is expected to go on strike Friday to protest working conditions during the coronavirus pandemic. According to The Intercept, the workers are making a variety of demands, including back pay for unpaid time off they've used since the beginning of March, hazard pay or paid sick leave for the remainder of the pandemic, company-provided protective equipment and cleaning supplies at all times, and increased transparency from the companies about the number of COVID-19 cases in their facilities.
- April 29, an "advance" estimate released by the Bureau of Economic Analysis shows that Real GDP decreased at an annual rate of 4.8 percent in the first quarter of 2020. The "second" estimate for the first quarter, based on more complete data, will be released on May 28, 2020.
- A number of localities in CA have begun formally pushing back on the statewide stay-at-home order.
 - A letter was sent to the Governor from a coalition of elected leaders in San Luis Obispo.
 - The Huntington Beach City Council voted Thursday night during an emergency session to seek an injunction against Gov. Gavin Newsom's order to close Orange County beaches. An Orange County judge rejected the request Friday from Huntington Beach seeking a temporary restraining order against the governor's decision to close county beaches in an effort to slow the spread of the coronavirus. (LA Times Article)
 - Officials from six rural Northern California counties and 14 small cities have sent a letter urging the Governor to let them reopen their economies.
- May 12, Dr. Anthony Fauci, the nation's leading infectious diseases expert, remotely testified to the US Senate Health Committee and expressed a fear that if cities and states do not adhere to the government's guidelines on when and how they can begin to reopen, there could be more COVID-19 outbreaks. He provided an optimistic timeline for vaccine development and said there are at least eight vaccines in various stages of development.

- Wisconsin's Supreme Court ruled on May 13 that the state's Democratic governor could not extend a stay-at-home order to May 26. The lawsuit, brought by state Republicans, was the first successful challenge of its kind, and could put wind in the sails of anti-shutdown people in other states with Democratic governors.
- Gov. Gavin Newsom's administration could offer some relief from potential pay cuts for state workers by temporarily eliminating one of the paycheck deductions workers see each month, according to an Association of California State Supervisors web post. (SacBee article here)
- A group of international fraudsters appears to have mounted an immense, sophisticated attack on U.S. unemployment systems, creating a network that has already siphoned millions of dollars in payments that were intended to avert an economic collapse, according to federal authorities. The attackers have used detailed information about U.S. citizens, such as social security numbers that may have been obtained from cyber hacks of years past, to file claims on behalf of people who have not been laid off, officials said. (NYT article here)
- May 19, an international study of global carbon emissions found that daily emissions declined 17% between January and early April, compared to average levels in 2019, and could decline anywhere between 4.4% to 8% by the year's end. That figure would mark the largest annual decrease in carbon emissions since World War II, researchers said. The findings appeared today in the Nature Climate Change journal.
- Statewide Orders and Directives – Here is an interactive map by the New York Times showing which states have reopened and how.
- President Trump is expected to extend and expand restrictions on foreign workers coming into the United States during the coronavirus pandemic with J-1 visas, which are mostly given to those who come to the U.S. for summer employment, which will be significantly reduced because of the coronavirus. (Politico article here)
- May 27, the White House is renewing a push to end "surprise" medical bills — possibly as part of the next coronavirus rescue package — in a bid to deliver on protecting insured patients from sometimes staggering costs of emergency or out-of-network care. Trump administration officials are floating a plan that would outlaw health care providers from putting patients on the hook for thousands of dollars in expenses — but without mandating how doctors and hospitals would recover their costs from insurers, according to administration officials, Capitol Hill aides and industry lobbyists familiar with discussions. Billing disputes would have to be worked out on a case-by-case basis. (Politico article here)

- May 28, Governor Andrew M. Cuomo of New York announced an executive order authorizing business in the state to deny entry to people who are not wearing face coverings.
- Another 2.1 million new unemployment claims were filed last week, the Labor Department reported Thursday, pushing the total past 40 million since the coronavirus pandemic grabbed hold in mid-March.
- June 7, many Californians have yet to see the help and progress promised from EDD. The agency has hired at least half of an initial 1,800 staff it is seeking to help process an unprecedented volume of claims. EDD is now hiring an additional 1,200 people, for a total of 3,000 new staff over the next few weeks. (SacBee article here)
- June 8, there is one week until the deadline for the state legislature to pass the CA budget. Governor Newsom has been calling on the federal government to send the state more money, and has laid out a budget plan with $14 billion in so-called trigger cuts. The economic downturn has created an estimated $54.3 billion deficit for the next year. Without federal aid, a long list of state programs face reductions that will be felt everywhere. The state fiscal year begins July 1, and if Congress fails to act before that — and right now, that's not a good bet — the California cuts would be triggered. (SacBee article here)
- As of June 8, the S&P 500 has erased its losses for 2020, rising more than 44 percent since its low in March. (NY Times article here)
- June 9, a top expert at the World Health Organization on Tuesday walked back her earlier assertion that transmission of the coronavirus by people who do not have symptoms is “very rare.” Dr. Maria Van Kerkhove, who made the original comment at a W.H.O. briefing on June 9, said that it was based on just two or three studies and that it was a “misunderstanding” to say asymptomatic transmission is rare globally.
- June 9, as global central banks race to rescue their economies from coronavirus devastation, they are crossing red lines and trying out policies they had never before attempted. In the United States, the Federal Reserve is buying municipal debt and corporate bonds and lending to midsize companies — embracing never-before-tried efforts to keep credit markets functioning. These attempts, along with others elsewhere, go beyond what the monetary authorities did even in the darkest days of the 2008 global financial crisis. (NY Times article here)

- The United Nations Conference on Trade and Development made the prediction in a quarterly global trade update on trade trends. In April alone, the report said, preliminary data showed trade in energy products fell 40 percent and automotive products fell 50 percent. For the year, the agency predicted global trade would fall by 20 percent compared with 2019.
- June 11, as CA is monitoring 10 counties experiencing spikes in cases or hospitalizations, Governor Newsom has stated the state has adequate alternative care facilities, hospital surge capacity and ventilators to handle a potential spike in patients. In addition, California will soon start receiving hundreds of millions of N95 face masks from BYD after they were certified by a federal agency Monday. The state is also now conducting close to its goal of 60,000 tests per day. (Cal Matters article here)
- Governor Kate Brown of Oregon said on Thursday that she was pausing efforts to reopen the state's economy for a week because of a recent rise in coronavirus cases.
- A Los Angeles Times analysis of data on new COVID-19 cases found that the situation is improving in 24 states, getting worse in 23 states, and holding steady in 3. A change of at least 10 percent in either direction marked a state as either improving or worsening.
- Public health experts say it's unlikely that there will be a second round of mass lockdowns as coronavirus cases continue to rise. (SacBee article)
- The SacBee reports that Governor Newsom's administration is considering a statewide order to require the use of masks to prevent the spread of the coronavirus, according to officials in several counties in contact with the state.
 - Dr. Penny Borenstein, public health director in San Luis Obispo County, said Newsom administration officials briefed county health directors Wednesday. She said a statewide mask order is "under consideration. I do not have details at this time."
 - Sacramento County officials are considering changing the recommendation that customers wear masks inside stores and other businesses to a requirement, they told The Sacramento Bee on Wednesday, the same day the county saw four new deaths and 67 new cases of COVID-19. Dr. Peter Beilenson, the county health services director, said he was aware of similar discussions at the state level.

- California Manufacturing and Technology Association launched a new website, Safely Making California, that will link CA manufacturers producing personal protective equipment with buyers.
- Peter Navarro, the White House director of trade and manufacturing policy, said in an interview on Sunday that the White House was working to prepare for the possibility of a second wave of the coronavirus in the fall, though he said it wouldn't necessarily come. A prominent epidemiologist who initially predicted a first and second wave of the coronavirus in the United States, with a decline in between, warned on Sunday that the country was likely instead to experience one long stretch of cases, hospitalizations and deaths. (NY Times article)
- It has been reported that the President will sign an executive order temporarily suspending H-1B work visas for high-skilled workers, and would also affect several other categories of visas, although it would exempt health care professionals and farm workers, among other categories. Taken together, officials said the worker visa bans and green card suspensions would prevent 525,000 immigrants from working in the United States between now and the end of the year. - The European Union is preparing to ban American travelers when it reopens its borders to the outside world on July 1, lumping the U.S. in with Russia and Brazil in terms of countries that have failed to stop the spread of the coronavirus, according to the New York Times. (NY Times article)
- A French company plans to accelerate clinical trials of a coronavirus vaccine in the hope of earning approval for it by the first half of next year. The drug maker, Sanofi, announced the plan on Tuesday. The company and its partner, GlaxoSmithKline, had originally projected that a vaccine would be available — at the earliest — in the latter half of the year.
- The California Farm Bureau Federation has distributed a report conducted by ERA Economics, Economic Impacts of the COVID-19 Pandemic on California Agriculture, outlining 15 different agricultural sectors using data on production, exports and prices through early May, finding that pandemic related losses to CA farms, ranches, and agricultural businesses will range between $5.9 billion and $8.6 billion this year.
- Governors Andrew Cuomo of New York, Phil Murphy of New Jersey, and Ned Lamont of Connecticut said all travelers from states that meet specific health metrics must immediately enter a 14-day quarantine upon arrival in any of the three states. California's newly released daily case data shows a record 7,149 new cases in the most recent 24-hour period. That pushes the state's seven-day average to 4,633 cases, which qualifies Californians for the quarantine. (Politico article here)

- June 26, The World Health Organization announced that it needs $27.9 billion over the next year to speed up the production of a vaccine and to develop other tools in the fight against the virus.
- The E.U. will bar most travelers from the U.S. and Russia, which have been excluded from a list of countries deemed to have curbed the virus. While the new list is not legally binding, member states that open up to excluded countries face the risk that their E.U. partners will close their borders to them — reinforcing the disjointed response to the pandemic that the bloc has been striving to overcome. (NY Times article)
- The number of Americans who have been infected with the coronavirus is most likely about 10 times higher than the 2.3 million cases that have been reported, the director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said on June 25.
- The NY Times reports that congressional leaders are in the final stages of vetting Gen. Joseph F. Dunford Jr., the former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to lead a bipartisan oversight commission to scrutinize stimulus programs related to the coronavirus, according to a person familiar with the plans. The board was established as part of the $2.2 trillion stimulus law in March. The commission has issued two reports examining the implementation of the stimulus law and met with Steven Mnuchin, the Treasury secretary, and Jerome Powell, the chairman of the Federal Reserve, this week.
- June 30, Dr. Fauci testified to the US Senate Education, Labor and Pensions Committee hearing that he would "not be surprised" if the U.S. begins reporting as many as 100,000 new coronavirus cases per day. Stephen Hahn, Food and Drug Administration commissioner, said he was optimistic about possible treatments for coronavirus for adults by the fall, noting that remdesivir, an antiviral medication, has shown a reduction in hospitalization days among COVID-19 patients and antibody data will help. (NPR article here)
- 239 scientists representing 32 countries is reportedly preparing to ask the WHO to revise its recommendations due to evidence it says supports the claim the disease is airborne. Ventilation systems in schools, nursing homes, residences and businesses may need to minimize recirculating air and add powerful new filters. Ultraviolet lights may be needed to kill viral particles floating in tiny droplets indoors. Masks would possibly be necessary in all indoor settings, regardless of whether social distancing was maintained. (NY Times article)
- Sacramento County health officials announced five coronavirus testing sites will shut down this week in under-served communities due to a growing shortage of testing materials. National news media have begun to report testing material shortages elsewhere as more communities have attempted to expand the number of tests available. (SacBee article here)

- July 7, W.H.O. scientists acknowledged that airborne transmission may be important in indoor spaces and said it planned to release updated recommendations in a few days. Staff members fielded several questions about transmission of the virus by air, prompted by a widely publicized open letter from 239 experts calling on the agency to review its guidance.
- July 9, the WHO formally acknowledged that droplets carrying the coronavirus may be airborne indoors and that people who spend long periods in crowded settings with inadequate ventilation may be at risk of becoming infected, a reversal that many scientists said was long overdue. And it also acknowledged unequivocally that the virus can be transmitted by people who do not have symptoms.
- The California Teachers Association has sent a letter to Governor Newsom, legislative leaders, and Superintendent Thurmond saying “California cannot reopen schools unless they are safe,” and, “from a public health perspective, the best course of action would be to focus on improving our ability to provide robust, quality distance learning until the virus is marginalized and safety measures are addressed.”
- The SF Chronicle has reported that Governor Newsom will release approximately 8,000 people incarcerated inside California’s prison system by the end of August in an effort to save lives amid coronavirus outbreaks at several facilities and pressure from lawmakers and advocates. The releases will come on a rolling basis, and they will include both people who were scheduled to be freed soon and people at high risk of serious complications if they contract the virus. The first round of releases will free people who have 180 days or less to serve on their sentence, making about 4,800 prisoners eligible for release by the end of the month, officials said. (SF Chronicle article here)
- The American Academy of Pediatrics released a new statement on July 10th, changing their tone from the guidance issued two weeks ago and making it clear that while in-person school provides crucial benefits to children, “public health agencies must make recommendations based on evidence, not politics.” (NPR article here)
- The New York Times reports that California, after rising a boom, braces for hard times, noting the unemployment rate which was 3.9 percent in February, the lowest on record, shot up to 16.3 percent by May, compared with 13.3 percent nationwide. The U.C.L.A. Anderson Forecast, which has been prognosticating California’s economic trajectory since 1952, expects that the state and national economies won’t fully recover until “well past 2022.”
