The Anne Frank Memorial

In 1960, Otto Frank, Anne's father, had the honour of planting the first tree in the Anne Frank Memorial Park located in the Martyrs' Forest.

In 2011, JNF supporters in Holland donated a new Anne Frank Memorial for the park.

At the dedication ceremony, KKL-JNF World Chairman, Efi Stenzler, shared the following words:

"Dear Anne: 69 years have passed since you and your family entered the hidden apartment in Amsterdam. It may be true that the forces of evil captured your body, but they could not take your soul....I am sorry to tell you that the chestnut tree that you loved so much, which grew outside the window of your hiding place, is no more. It fell in a winter storm; perhaps it grew weak from a broken heart. But we have chosen to build a memorial for you in the heart of the forest – not just one chestnut tree, but six million trees that JNF planted in memory of the victims of the Holocaust. You are with us now in nature, which you loved so much, commemorated for all time under the cloudless blue skies of Israel."

Did You Know?

A photograph of a large pile of cut logs in a forest. The logs are stacked haphazardly, showing their circular cross-sections with distinct wood grain patterns. The bark is dark and textured. In the background, the trunks of standing trees are visible, slightly out of focus. A semi-transparent grey rectangular box is overlaid on the upper part of the image, containing text.

SINCE 1926 IT HAS BEEN ILLEGAL
TO CUT DOWN TREES IN ISRAEL
WITHOUT A PERMIT
