

Good morning and Malo e lelei,

On Sunday as we explored the truth from the ballfields that “Practice Matters,” I shared one of my many beloved Fredrick Buechner quotes “Faith is better understood as a verb than as a noun, as a process than as a possession.” Faith is something we live, not something we have. It is a journey, not a destination. It is not a place we have arrived, but rather somewhere we are perpetually arriving. It is belief turned into action that continually pushes us forward.

This week I invite you to continue to wrestle with the three questions I left you with on Sunday.

- Where were you in your journey with Christ five years ago?
- Where are you today?
- Where do you hope to be in your journey with Christ five years from now?

As you consider each time horizon ask what spiritual practices were speaking to you, how were you embodying your trust of God, and where have you seen growth in your life?

Know I'd love to hear your reflections, experiences, and dreams for what God might do in you next.

Grace and Peace,
Pastor Daniel
