Danny Lyons is a solo handbell artist, handbell director, and clinician who plays concerts and conducts clinics and handbell classes regularly throughout the southeast and across the nation.

Danny's performance highlights include an invitation in 2006 to play a solo handbell performance as the closing concert for an international music festival in Novi Sad, Serbia/Montenegro, and to tour through Paris. In 2008 he was honored to be one of only four ringers chosen nationwide to teach and play as a member of the "Dream Team Quartet" at Villanova University. In the spring of 2009 he travelled to Nassau, Bahamas to play in conjunction with the Bahamas National Children's Chorus. As well, Danny has recorded three CDs and a concert DVD. He regularly teaches handbell classes and plays solo recitals for the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, and has been a contributor to the national magazine of the Guild, "Overtones." Danny's concerts and clinics are marked with humor and audience participation. He offers a variety of musical styles including Broadway, patriotic, classical and sacred. Danny resides in Pensacola, Florida.
