Leadership Council

There is no better catalyst for economic mobility than a college degree. By connecting individual, corporate, and community leaders to our work, we can help students achieve success and positively impact our city's future. Joining Bottom Line's Leadership Council gives you the chance to:

- Give back to your community by helping first-generation students from low-income backgrounds get into college, graduate from college, and go far in life
- Serve as a volunteer leader advancing the organization's mission and growth
- Expand your personal and professional network by meeting and connecting with other philanthropic professionals
- Help Bottom Line students increase their social capital through professional networking events throughout the year

Leadership Council Commitment:

- Attend bi-annual leadership briefings on the current state of the organization and future strategy
- Secure an annual give/get commitment of $5,000 for the organization
- Share what you learn about our field, and Bottom Line specifically, as an ambassador in order to raise awareness about the work we do and the impact we can have
- Activate your personal networks to further Bottom Line's mission by making introductions to potential individual, corporate, and institutional partners
- Engage in relevant board committee calls to provide input on key projects and the strategic direction of the organization
