

HENDERSON, Nev. (August 30, 2017) – Southern Nevadans will soon have a new place to play as Cadence, a 2,200-acre planned community in Henderson, celebrates the grand opening of its dynamic adventure playground on Saturday, Sept. 16.

The adventure playground is located within Cadence's 50-acre Central Park and boasts a climbing wall, timber climber, balance net, play tunnel, landscape stumps, a rope climber, slides galore and much more to explore. The playground includes separate areas for younger children and teens – scaled for age and ability – and will be open to the public year-round.

“Cadence is known for promoting an active lifestyle for its residents and the broader Henderson community,” said Cheryl Gowan, spokesperson for The LandWell Company, developer of Cadence. “Our adventure playground perfectly complements our offerings here and is sure to be a vibrant setting for so many memories for kids, teens and their families in the years ahead.”

To celebrate the grand opening, Henderson dignitaries will join executives from The LandWell Company for a unique ceremony on Sept. 16. Additionally, performers will be on-site – including acrobats, a juggler, a contortionist and stilt walker – roving the grounds and engaging with attendees.

Cadence is Southern Nevada's first master planned community to break ground in a decade and, upon completion, will boast more than 13,250 homes. More than 500 families now call Cadence home. Cadence will feature 450 acres of open space, including 30 acres of trails for walking, hiking and biking that interconnect to the Las Vegas Wash Trail and River Mountain Loop Trail.

Cadence currently offers the area's only residential bike share program and recently broke ground on three dog parks. Additionally, a 100-acre sports park will include basketball and tennis courts and fields for soccer, softball and other popular recreational sports.
