The Texas Ramp Project celebrated its 40th anniversary by building 40 free wheelchair ramps across the state, marking a significant milestone in its mission to aid mobility-impaired residents.

For four decades, TRP has been dedicated to constructing free wheelchair ramps for over 30,000 Texans who face mobility challenges, particularly benefiting older adults who make up a significant portion of the 1.7 million residents with disabilities.

“This milestone reflects our commitment to improving accessibility and independence for those in need,” said a spokesperson for the Texas Ramp Project.

The Texas Ramp Project’s efforts are supported by a network of 3,500 volunteers, including employees from WellMed, who contribute their time and skills to improve accessibility for those in need.

WellMed and the WellMed Charitable Foundation have been instrumental partners, providing over $100,000 in funding and helping to build more than 100 ramps for TRP clients.

The support from WellMed is fueled by generous donations from its employees and business partners, reflecting a shared commitment to enhancing the quality of life and independence for mobility-impaired individuals.

As TRP continues its mission, the organization remains a vital resource for Texans, offering independence and safety to those who might otherwise be confined to their homes.
