Calling all Alpha parents: Let's have a Conversation

Did you know that you are raising a child(ren) who is part of the Alpha Generation (born in 2010 and after)?

The Alpha generation was born entirely in the 21st century, growing up with AI, smart devices, and an increasingly digital world.

These children will have jobs that don't exist yet. We want to make sure they are prepared by instilling a lifelong love of learning, confidently challenging them to learn, and have the core competencies to be ready.

One researcher stated, "helping Generation Alpha to develop specific skills such as STEM [Science, Technology, Engineering, Math], as well as social competencies, entrepreneurial skills, strength and coordination, financial literacy, innovation, resilience and resourcefulness will be key to enabling them to thrive in the future.

Now is the time to understand the research and join together for our children's future.
