

Seeing the American City

Wednesday, November 17, 1-2pm

Join Randolph G. Adams, Director of the Clements Library, and Paul Erickson for an online presentation of the Clements collection of birds'-eye views of America. Erickson will discuss the significance of these unique nineteenth century depictions of communities throughout the United States and what we can learn about time and place.