

Nonya Fiakpui, VMD, MS, DACVIM (Cardiology)

Veterinary Degree: University of Pennsylvania
Internship: The Ohio State University
Residency: Purdue University
Master's Degree: Purdue University

Drawing on her years of international experience working specialty hospitals in Sweden and New England, Dr. Nonya Fiakpui advances cardiac care globally as a teleconsultant and educator. She shares her expertise through local, national, and international lectures, and has supported the training of students and future cardiologists. Based in Chicago, she founded Synchrony Veterinary Cardiology to make clinical cardiology clear and accessible, empowering primary care veterinarians to provide high-quality care to their patients.
