

The WRITE stuff at Northbridge

Chris Cuiffitelli and Carrie Dixon at Northbridge were caught being inclusive in their efforts to support Northbridge students with the writing process. Ms. Dixon introduces the prompt and outlines the introduction with a focus on the thesis. Students submit their work via Google Classroom where Ms. Dixon edits and makes comments. Mr. Cuiffitelli then reviews edits and assists students with revisions during academic support periods.

Literature can also be a cause of anxiety and struggle for some students, but Ms. Dixon and Mr. Cuiffitelli collaborated about several ways to support students. Audio links for short stories and poems have been added to Ms. Dixon's google classroom. Students have also downloaded an app on their phones to support them with the new literature series. This app is scanned over the page of the textbook, and the text is then delivered in an audio format. The app can also bring supporting images and videos to life.
