Recreation

El Yunque National Forest

The Carribean National Forest, often called El Yunque is the most visited natural site in Puerto Rico. The series of forests is home to some 240 tree species, tree frogs and even endangered Puerto Rican parrots. Though best explored by foot, it can also be enjoyed during a slow drive up and down the mountain.

35 miles east of The Condado Hilton Plaza.

Bioluminescent Bay – Vieques

The glow of the bay is actually bioluminescence generated by microscopic organisms in the water. The phenomenon occurs sporadically in warm seas around the world, but Puerto Rico is one of the only places on the planet where you can depend on it every evening.

Vieques Bay is the closest at about 45 minutes drive.
