

Scholar Spotlight

Terrence Patterson William Penn Chapter

Terrence Patterson attends Lower Merion High School where he is in 11th grade. He loves math. Terrence enjoys being able to learn the basics of socializing, understanding cultural norms, and navigating successfully in all environments. With a charismatic personality, he gets along with people of varying ages and backgrounds. Terrence sees himself as a "jack of all trades" and wants to experience life to its fullest potential.

YMWIC has helped Terrence change his way of thinking about education and understanding other viewpoints. After high school, he would be interested in studying architecture in college. Eventually, he would like to start and run his own business.

Terrence's advice to younger Scholars, "Find a dream; but stay open minded, as God may have different plans for your life. Have fun as a kid and absorb everything you can. Scholars should take advantage of YMWIC's programs and listen to those investing in your potential. And remember, it's the simple things in life that can bring true happiness."

Terrence is an Honor Roll student who works diligently to maintain A's and B's. He has earned awards for sports including MVP. He accepts them humbly as he works hard for the top spot. In addition to sports, Terrence can play a little guitar but admits he's a bit rusty. He loves anime, video games, exploring cultures and practices in his free time--along with a nap here and there. Terrence feels truly honored to be interviewed. He thanks YMWIC staff for helping him grow, learn, and develop.

Terrence, we are honored to have you as a member of YMWIC!
