Scholar Spotlight

Jannah McAfee Norristown Eisenhower Chapter

Fourth grader Jannah McAfee, a proud YMWIC Eisenhower Scholar from Hancock, is already emerging as a focused leader and future entrepreneur. She joined YMWIC in 3rd grade and loves learning how to be professional, meeting new people, and doing science experiments, all core parts of the Foundation's mission to develop young Scholars.

Jannah says YMWIC has helped her stay focused in class and grow into a respectful young lady, and she dreams of becoming a business owner with her own hair and nail salon after attending cosmetology school. She encourages new and younger Scholars to join, calling it the best decision they can make; because they will grow personally and professionally, meet new people, and learn about so many exciting topics.

Beyond academics, Jannah has earned a Kindness Award and two Perfect Attendance Awards; and she also plays the violin. In her free time, she enjoys reading to her little sister and having movie nights with friends and family, reflecting the strong character and balance that YMWIC aims to foster in its Scholars. Continue doing well, Jannah!
