2024 GETT Expo

YMWIC Scholars Spend the Day "GETT"ing Immersed in STEM

A group of YMWIC Scholars had a blast at the GETT (Girls Exploring Tomorrow's Technology) Annual Expo which took place on October 26, 2024, at the Philadelphia Expo Center at Oaks. This eagerly-anticipated event offers girls in Grades 4 through 10 hands-on interactive experiences in STEM.

Our Scholars participated in a variety of fun and informative opportunities including getting lessons on and practicing CPR, trying out police gear and climbing aboard a helicopter, and performing science experiments. They visited among 125 tables set up with STEM activities and met a diverse group of women from 63 companies who led them through experiments and demonstrations and shared their own experiences in STEM fields.

A great time was had by all as they eagerly look forward to next year's Expo. Events such as GETT expose our Scholars to many areas of STEM they may not otherwise have exposure to and allow them to enjoy learning. They are also able to speak with professionals about their education and career paths. We are certain GETT activities will continue influencing our Scholars to make choices about their own futures in STEM.
