Scholar Spotlight

Isata Ngaima
William Penn Chapter

"My name is Isata Ngaima. I am in the 11th grade, and I attend Penn Wood High School. I joined the YMWIC Program for the first time this year. What I enjoy most about the Program is the research we do for our Science Projects, along with the exciting activities we complete during Project Support and Workshops. I also enjoy the speakers who present relevant and interesting topics throughout the Program Year.

The biggest impact this Foundation made on me is making me a better student, taking studying more seriously, and meeting like-minded students. When I graduate high school, I would like to go into the medical field to become an Oral Surgeon. As far as colleges, my top four picks are NYU, the Air Force Academy, Emory University, Johns Hopkins University, and the University of Pennsylvania.

The advice I would give to younger and newer Scholars, "Make new friends when you are here, make sure to attend workshops and events as often as you can, and have fun." Something I would tell others who don't know about the Foundation, "YMWIC is a fantastic Program; their programs stimulate you to want to learn even more! Academically, the programming helps you become a better student. Also, if you are interested in STEM, this would be a perfect fit for you."

As far as Honor Roll and awards, I earned the Distinguished Honor Roll pretty much my entire middle and high school career, Perfect Attendance Award, an English Award, and other nominations I received from another program for the National Academy of Future Physicians. During my free time, I enjoy hanging out with my family, studying my religion, and shopping. I also like to paint, crochet, and practice pottery. Welcome to YMWIC. We love your commitment to academic excellence!
