Tisya Dinesh West Chester Chapter

Tisya Dinesh, an 11th grader at B. Reed Henderson High School, has been a member of the YMWIC Foundation since the 6th grade. Over the years, Tisya has shown strong commitment, dedication, and a hardworking attitude toward the foundation. She consistently puts effort into everything she does and is someone YMWIC can always count on. Tisya's friendly and accepting personality adds to the positive environment of the program and encourages younger scholars to get involved and feel comfortable participating.

Tisya is grateful for the opportunities she has through YMWIC. She shares that "...having new job shadowing opportunities that connect me to people who can help with my future career" is one of the things she enjoys most about the foundation. One of the biggest impacts YMWIC has had on Tisya is connecting her with people who inspire her to work toward her goals. The foundation has also introduced her to a more diverse group of peers than she finds in her school district. Tisya's willingness to step outside of her comfort zone and connect with others is an important quality that will benefit her in the future.

After graduating high school, Tisya plans to pursue a Pre-Med/Biology program at the University of Pittsburgh, University of South Florida, Saint Joseph's University, Boston University, Northwestern University, or the University of South Carolina, with the goal of becoming a pediatric doctor. Her strong work ethic, kindness, and motivation show that she is on track to do something amazing with her future, and YMWIC is proud to support her along the way.

While Tisya is a dedicated student, she also enjoys spending time outside of school. She likes playing the piano, playing tennis with friends, listening to music, and spending time with the people she cares about.

Tisya would like everyone to know that YMWIC is a youth program that supports students in pursuing higher education in STEM and many other fields, while helping them grow both academically and personally.
